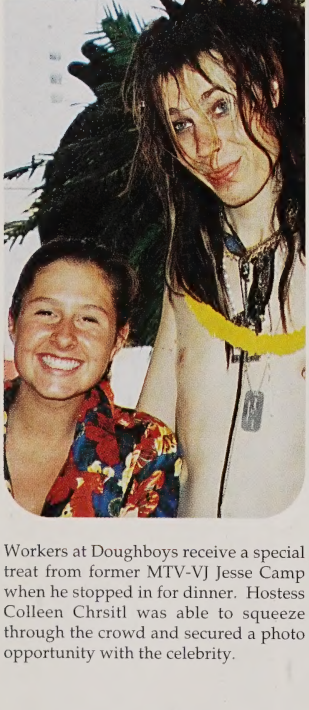
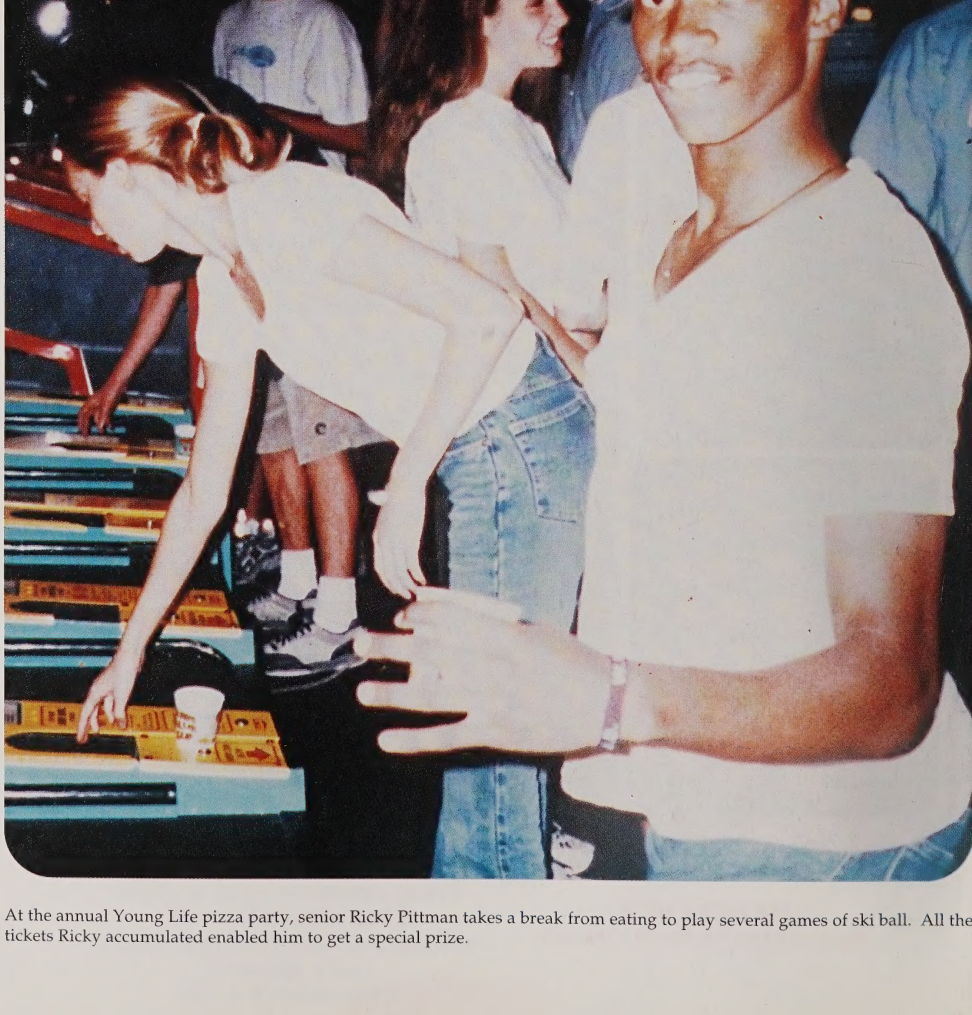
Smiling happily at the camera, Jason Colon, Christine Moriera, Anjali Vyas and Leon Coleman take pre-Homecoming pictures. Picture taking was a traditional activity for groups before going out to dinner and the dance.

In the courtyard area, students of Mrs. Turner's and Mrs. Keener's chemistry classes take part in the various Mole Day festivities of food, poetry, and skits. The food brought in by the students provided a fun and delicious way to learn.



Workers at Doughboys receive a special treat from former MTV-VJ Jesse Camp when he stopped in for dinner. Hostess Colleen Chrsitl was able to squeeze through the crowd and secured a photo opportunity with the celebrity.



At the annual Young Life pizza party, senior Ricky Pittman takes a break from eating to play several games of ski ball. All the tickets Ricky accumulated enabled him to get a special prize.

All Said greatest impression And Done

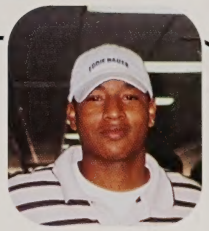
Throughout the ups and downs of the school year, Patriots were known for their continued support of school activities as well as their fellow students. The bonds of friendship forged during their high school years enabled students to agree that once it's all said and done, their school was the best.

What's the greatest impression First Colonial has made on you?

"I have matured into the stunning young man I am today due to FC."
Max Hoes, 12

"FC is a place where friendship can leave an imprint in your heart.
Laura Machaj, 12

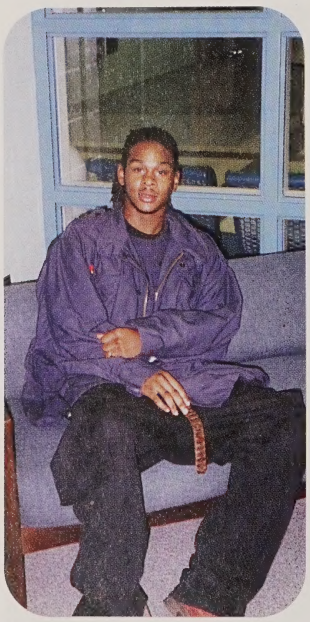


"I believe this school has really prepared me for life in the real world."
Mikhael Tate, 12

During the halftime activities, Andrew Poole, B.J. Naylor, Stephanie Granger, Brian Rabchuk, Tommy Lenhart, and Tyler Houston take a break from yelling and screaming. These students, like many others, were seen at the football games on a regular basis.

Hanging out in the back seat, seniors Farrell Shoup, Taren Gregory, Angelina Zingone, and Amber Gray enjoy a ride to Busch Gardens. Throughout the summer, these girls were often found having a good time together.

Focusing on the waves ahead, Terry Young carves up the water while wakeboarding. Terry frequently enjoyed various watersports while the weather was warm during the summer months.



Patiently, Aki Johnson, a junior, waits for assistance from one of the four secretaries. Students could always find assistance and help in the office.

Practicing in a garage over the weekend, Matt Eng, Patrick "Skippy" Clark, Will Bass, and Philip Bowling get ready for a gig. Their band, "The Transistion," gained popularity within the community.

All Said from start to finish And Done

Contrary to popular belief, students had a life outside of the school's hallways and classrooms. When they were not busy doing homework or studying for a big test, students kept themselves occupied with friends, clubs, and outdoor activities. The Neptune Festival, Ring Dance, Senior Prom, and Homecoming were events which played an important role in student's life from start to finish.

What's your favorite aspect about high school life?

"I love FC becuase all the students and faculty members are so helpful; and I really like the color blue."

Ernest Wilson, 12

"FC is so great because I get to hang out with all the cool seniors."

Ashley Hamilton, 9

"I truly enjoyed supporting and cheering my class on during the pep rallies."

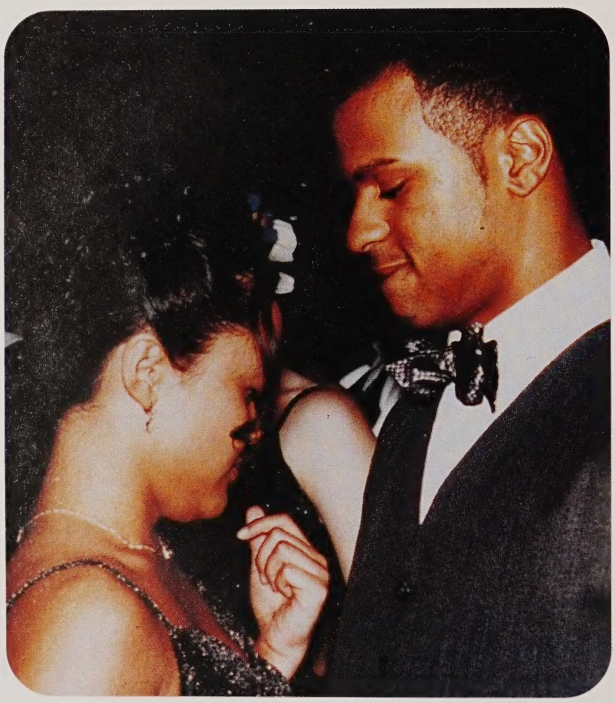
Elizabeth Noely, 11

Hanging out on a warm summer day, friends Kara Laskowski, Michaela Carroll, Audrey Austin, Erin Musgrove, Courtney Soscia, and Beth Vladich form a circle with their arms. These six girls alternated houses during the summer for their various activities.

"WE ALL SHINE ON. LIKE THE MOON, AND THE STARS, AND THE SUN."-JOHN LENNON

Immensely enjoying themselves, Morgan Snodgrass and Scott Morton raise the roof at Senior Prom. Students danced the night away to their favorite music played by the Great DJ Dave.

The senior class displays their indulging pride of being the last class of the twentieth century. Audrey Harris, senior prom committee chair, organized the evening to have a lasting effect for all the graduates.



As the night comes to a close, this couple enjoys a slow dance. The final dance was the culmination of a night never to be forgotten.

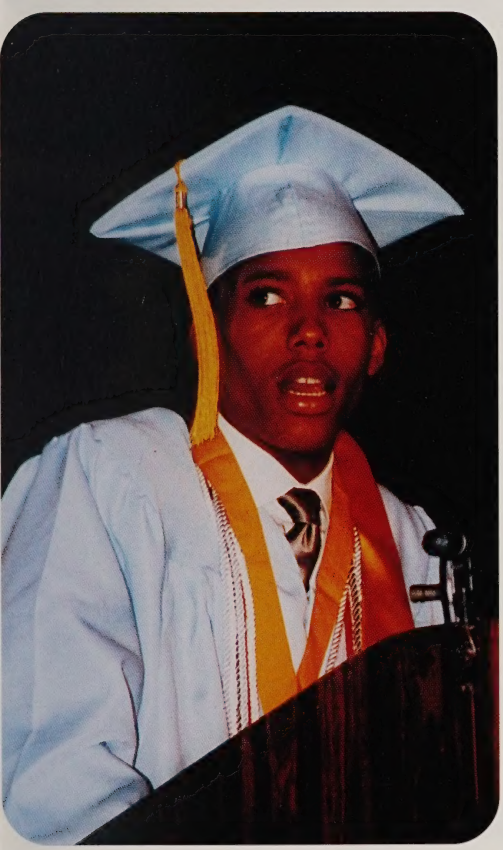
Exhibiting a vivid display of their knowledge of dance technique, Aimee Redinger and Jackie Harris move their hips to the Macerena. The Macerena was one of the more popular songs enjoyed at the prom.

Senior Prom "time of your life" & Graduation

Excitedly, Megan Apel receives her diploma from Dr. Stowers. Megan shook his hand and briskly walked off the podium to join her classmates for the last time.

At 8:00 p.m. the Senior Prom, "Mediterranean Mystique",was held at the Norfolk Marriot Hotel ballroom. The seniors gathered to enjoy a night of pictures and dance and being with friends. Senior Prom committee chair Audrey Harris helped to make sure that the atmosphere came together to form an unforgettable evening.

Senior Prom, however, was not the only unforgettable evening of the year; for the most important was June 18, 1999, Graduation Night. After the speech by Valedictorian Leon Coleman, the students received their diplomas, and tossed their caps in celebration of their newly accomplished goal. The seniors who attended Gradfest enjoyed a fun filled night of games and food.



Valedictorian Leon Coleman gives a rousing speech to his fellow graduates. For the last four years, Leon was known for his powerful speeches which went hand in hand with his high academic standing.

Graduates file into the Pavilion to find their seats. The anxiety and excitement of the event was evident on the students faces as they waited to receive their diploma and enter into adulthood.

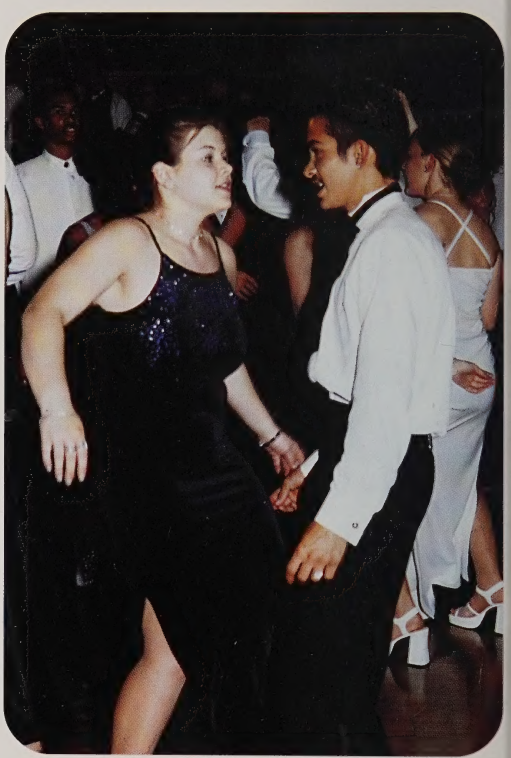
"RIGHT NOW A MOMENT IN TIME IS FLEETING BY."-PAUL CEZANNE

Junior "Unforgettable" Ring Dance

As the limos rolled into the parking lot of the Little Creek Amphibious Base Planet Beach, excited voices were heard accompanied by smiling faces. The atmosphere was filled with fun and as the dancing began the dress' sequins glittered and shone against the night sky. A special highlight for juniors was receiving their class rings that were personalized and waiting to be turned by fellow classmates. Despite the bad weather, the juniors were determined to make their ring dance "Unforgettable." Preparation was extensive not only for those attending the dance, but those who spent many hours planning the event as well. All the hard work paid off, and the Junior Ring Dance ended with a bang. Students left with fond memories and tired bodies, after dancing the night away.

Happily receiving their rings from the Josten's Rep are Dustin Rich and Lisa Hatfield. Dustin and Lisa were eager to start having their friends begin the traditional "turning of the ring".

Enjoying their favorite song, Andre Genetti and Allison Mitchell gaze into each others eyes as they dance. Andre and Allison were good friends who spent time together throughout the year.



Getting a chance to show off their moves, Niki Mateus and Dustin Rhoades groove to the music of the DJ. With a wide varitey of music played, every student was afforded the chance to dance to their preference..

"HE WHO WANTS TO ENJOY THE GLORY OF THE SUNRISE MUST LIVE THROUGH THE NIGHT."-ANONYMOUS

This group of close friends enjoy their dinner together at Steinhilber's before dancing the night away. Many students choose to eat at more formal-style restaurants so the girls could show off their dresses and their dressed up escorts.

Stopping to rest inbetween dances, Tiffany Hunter and David Greene pose for a picture. Tiffany and David also enjoyed visiting the refreshment tables filled with fruit, cheese and assorted finger foods.

"THE ONE RED LEAF, THE LAST OF ITS CLAN, THAT DANCES AS OFTEN AS DANCE IT CAN."-SAMUEL COOERIDGE

Dancing to the music, Melissa Bunnell and Andy Park boogie the night away. Ring Dance was the time to interact with close friends and dance as much or as little as desired.

Having a truly unforgettable time, juniors and their dates socialize and dance on the crowded floor at Planet Beach. With few chances to show off their moves, students took advantage of this special night.

Framing the Epcot Center at Disney World, Florida, Barbara Besal and Thomas Marquies celebrate the end of a fun-filled day. The two have been best friends since third grade and were able to spend time with their families during vacation.

Burying themselves head deep in sand, seniors Taren Gregory and Melanie Sullivan enjoy a day at the beach. The two friends spent many days at the ocean front, sunbathing, swimming, and building sand castles.

At a surprise going away party for Klaus Klassing, a German exchange student, Gerard Golden, Joel Throckmorton, and Adam Appelton take a picture to remember their new friend. Klaus spent the remainder of the summer months traveling within the United States before he returned to Germany.

Summer relaxin' times Fun

As the last few days of school slowly faded away, students could only think of what they were going to do during their summer vacation. During the break, students planned to spend time with their family, work, or just hang around. Most students relaxed while walking the strip along the nearby oceanfront. Terry Young commented, "If I was ever bored, I could always go to the beach, either to bodyboard or to relax with friends." Students also enjoyed many outdoor activites such as boating, skateboarding, and surfing. Harlan Hendricks stated, "Having a boat meant that I could always go wakeboarding or fishing if I was bored." Regardless of how each student spent their summer break, the memories from summer vacation made for interesting conversation when school started.

At the Virginia Beach Music Festival on June 21, Kristin Lyall performs with Craig Woolard and the Embers, "More Than A Number". Craig has known Kristin since she was a young child and has made a commitment to mentor her singing career.

Showing off their brand new tattoos, Jerome King, Joey Davis, and Walter Hall proudly display their colorful creations. Many students decided during the summer months to show off their personality by getting tattoos.

"IF YOU NEVER DID, YOU SHOULD. THESE THINGS ARE FUN; AND FUN IS GOOD."-DR. SUESS

With charm, Blake Kappers lends a helping hand to a customer. Blake's power of persuasion enabled him to bring in many sales at Sunsations T-shirt shop on the strip.

Sitting with her dog Alpha, Julia Moshkariov watches over the inventory outside Sea Horse souvenier shop. Julia enjoyed being outside in the warm sunshine while she earned money.

Taking money from a fellow student, Brian Lance gives Gerard Golden a ticket to park. Working as a parking lot attendant was a popular job choice for a summer job.

Busy saving lives, Lee Smartschan watches over fellow swimmmers at the Little Neck Swim and Raquet Club. Although he worked mainly at the snackbar, he had some time to help the lifeguards when they needed any extra help with swimmers.

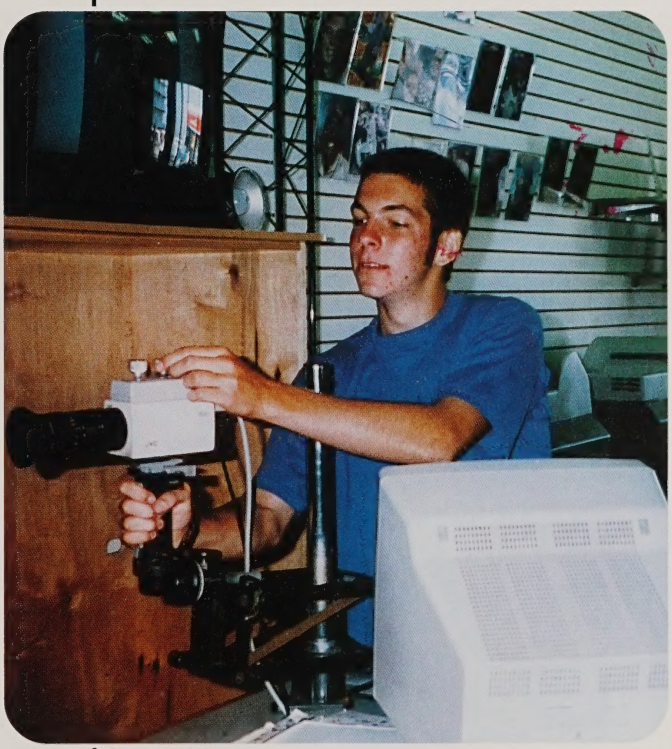
Summer Jobs

workin' for the money

As the school year was coming to a close, students hit the beach or took off to various locations for vacations. Many students, however, started looking for their perfect summer job. Adam Appleton summed it up when he said, "The greatest thing about Virginia Beach is that there is such a variety of jobs. You can always find one that you'll enjoy." These jobs helped students pay for car insurance, movie tickets, clothes, and trips with friends. Other students served the community by volunteering at places such as hospitals and professional offices. Summer jobs provided students with valuable work skills and experience that would help them in college and later in their careers.

Cleaning the inside of a tanning bed at Sunspa, Danielle Ratte' gets it ready for the next customer. Danielle used the money she earned from her job to fund her new fall wardrobe.

As she works under the hot summer sun down at the ocean-front, Lauren Gladstone serves up some delicious food to her customer. Lauren remained cool eventhough she had to endure many days of humidity and heat.



On top of his job, Ryan Withers adjusts a camera at Photo Magic. His long and restless days on the job paid off at the end of each week with the money he earned.

"SHOOT FOR THE MOON. EVEN IF YOU FALL SHORT YOU WILL LAND AMONG THE STARS."-UNKNOWN

"LOVE IS THE ONLY COMMODITY THAT POWER CANNOT COMMAND AND MONEY CANNOT BUY."-ANONYMOUS

Neptune "Brazil" Festival

Near the beginning of the school year, another excellent Neptune Festival occurred the weekend of September 25. The twenty-sixth anniversary of this annual celebration attracted both locals and tourists to the oceanfront with the theme ,"Brazil". The crowds came out to walk in the sunshine and enjoy the boardwalk, art show, sandcastle contest, cheering competition, parade, and volleyball tournament. Student representation was noticed from the majority of the schools in all events, with the varsity cheerleading squad who took home a third place in the cheering competition. Christina Boubas and Amy Hammaker were our representatives as Neptune princesses participating in the Strawberry Festival, several balls, parades and at the Oceana Naval Air Show. The Navy's famous Blue Angels flew in a week earlier to get acclamated to the Virginia Beach air space. Artist Andrew Ruggles displayed his original oil painting at the boardwalk art show as well as other artist students who entered in various catagories. As always, the Patriots made an outstanding showing in all events at one of the city's biggest annual events.

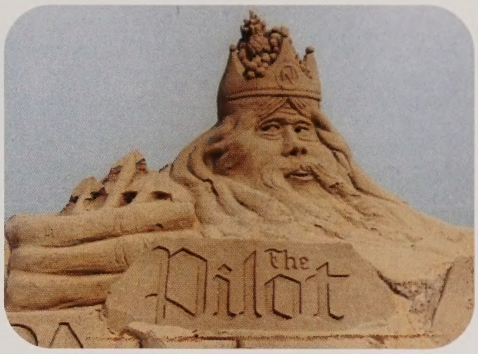
Four of the nine Neptune Princesses, including our very own Amy Hammaker and Christina Boubas, pose in front of the Blue Angels planes at the Oceana Naval Air Show. All the princesses enjoyed being able to represent their various schools and communities during this important occasion.

Members of the NJROTC line up before proceeding down Atlantic Avenue in the Neptune Parade. Self discipline and attentiveness were exercised throughout the day as the cadets participated in various events.

Preparing themselves aboard the float, the Neptune Festival court gets ready for the parade. The Strawberry Festival Parade was held in Pungo and contained numerous city-wide groups.

Seated next to their escorts, the princesses advance down Atlantic Avenue on King Neptune's float. Each girl selected as a princess endured a selection process which was open to girls city wide.

The sandcastle event is one of the most popular of the Neptune Festival weekend. Winning a prominent place in the contest was the King Neptune display.



Smiling big for the camera, Neptune Princesses Christina Boubos and Amy Hammaker enjoy the annual Neptune Ball. The girls had the opprotunity to participate in a number of community events.

Displaying the school banner, the marching band proudly participates in the Neptune Festival Parade. The band and colorguard began in August making preparations for this event and various competitions.

Spirit Week

Patriot Pride

Showing their Patriot pride, students spent hours decorating the halls getting ready for spirit week. Their hard work was well worth it as the spirit week activities were successful. The week started out with Pajama day, as Patriots rolled out of bed and went to school without giving it a second thought. Tuesday was College Sweatshirt day, followed by Hawaiian Day, and Decade Day. Even teachers were seen in clothes from their high school days on Thursday. And finally, Friday was Spirit Day. All students had the opportunity to go crazy with blue and gold, sporting shirts and ribbons to support their school. The week was finished off with a spirit and hallway competition, as the seniors left with both titles. The week boosted the school's morale and prepared them for Friday's football game.

Posing with football players, Aaron Rouse and Josh Owens, Monique Cooke dons her sunglasses and takes time out from the Pep Rally festivities. Monique already had her hair ribbons in place and was ready for the night to begin.

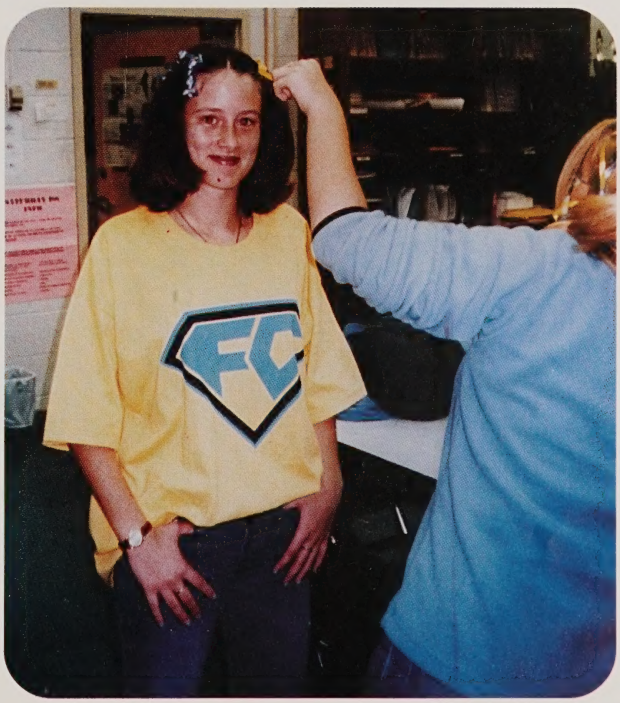
Selecting various students for the Homecoming pep rally game, John Almaguer leaps through the crowded stands. Spiderman, better known as John, successfully retrived participants as the students cheered.

Attempting to enthuse the student body, pep rally chairmen Jayme Lackore and Harlan Hendricks announce the Homecoming Court members. Jayme and Harlan spent countless hours preparing for the annual school-wide event.

Styling their sleep wear, these peppy patriots came to school in comfort. Pajama day was a favorite this year, as it made sleeping through class a little bit easier.

Applying the traditional blue and gold face paint, Mary Gail McGregor takes careful aim. James Turnbull had already dyed his hair blue, but wanted to add more color for the night's festivities.

As they maintain their balance, seniors Troy Hedspedth, Siddharth Patel, Ryan O'Donnell and Dave Jaskot perform their powder puff routine. The boys made excellent cheerleaders as they yelled for the girl's to be victorious.



Prepping for the Homecoming game, Aleisha Blackman ties a gold bow to Janae Jackson's hair. Janae also displayed her spirit by wearing the official Homecoming/Spirit Week t-shirt which students purchased as entry to the game.

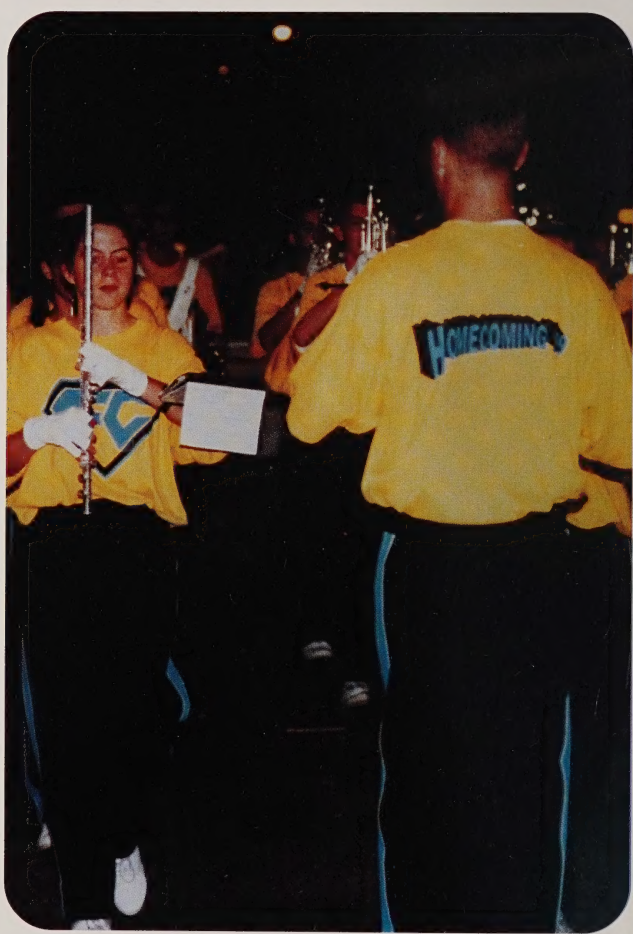
"IT'S GOOD TO BE JUST PLAIN HAPPY..."-HENRY MILLER

"WHEN ONE DOOR OF HAPPINESS CLOSES, ANOTHER DOOR OPENS."-HELEN KELLAR

While the football team waits at the goal post, this group of Madrigal Singers perform the Star-Spangled Banner. Meghan Gwaltney, Jessica Rider, Beth Otto, Laura Jordan, Mary Gale McGregor, Barbara Besal, Lauren McHorney, and Meredith Mobely sang with the men's group by their side and gave a resounding start to the Homecoming night.

Being paraded around the track, the 1999 Homecoming King and Queen smile for the fans. Ryan O'Donnell and Amy Hammaker were selected by their classmates to represent all Patriots with great pride.

During the pregame festivities, members of the color guard proudly raise their flags high as they march around the track. The color guard was the introduction to the marching band and quickly got the fans' attention.



As drum major, Andy Parks directs the band members and keeps them together throughout their routine. Andy played tenor sax in the symphonic winds and jazz band during the remainder of the school year.

Celebrating a touchdown pass, several football players uniformely jump with excitement. The team members enjoyed sharing their special jumps for all the fans.

Displaying the colors, the NJROTC color guard heads the parade during the pregame activities. Members of this elite team were responsible for presenting the colors at athletic events and PTSA meetings and other school functions.

Homecoming
"An Evening in Paradise" Festivities

Two consecutive evenings filled with excitement and fun made the Homecoming events seem like two nights in paradise. School spirit soared high as both alumni and students supported their Patriots. The parade lasted long enough so that the crowd in both sets of stands could gaze down and see how much time and effort each of the classes spent on their individual spirit floats. As the members of the Homecoming Court were walked down the fifty yard line and then paraded around the track, they looked dazzling. Allison Barrett commented, "The best part of Homecoming was beating Kellam! It was a great game." The band and chorus should not be forgotten as they put on a captivating display for all the fans. Every person supporting the team seemed proud to be a patriot, and that was what made the evening paradise.

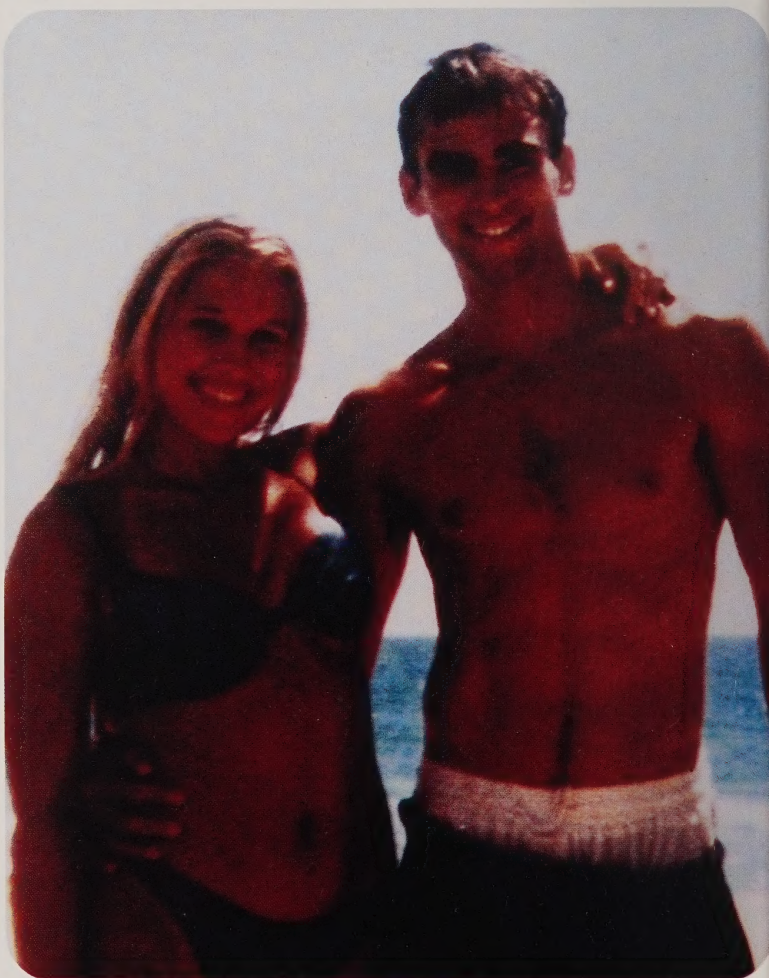
Tearing open the spirit banner held by the cheerleaders, Josh Sikes surges through helping to motivate his fellow team mates. As one of the key players, Josh knew that great enthusiasm would enspire the entire team to beat Kellam.

"THE TRUEST EXPRESSION OF A PEOPLE IS IN IT'S DANCE...BODIES NEVER LIE." AGNES DEMILLE

In the school's cafeteria, Jerome Sutton, Alexis Shanes, Quinten Williams, and Erin Nichols take a break from lunch. Socializing and getting caught up on the latest news was accomplished by friends during the half hour lunch time.

Marching around the track, a group of students display the freshman class banner. The Homecoming Parade held before the game and during half-time was the Class of 2003's first chance to show their Patriot pride.

Enjoying the warm summer weather, Teresa Floyd and Sarah Snedeker spend their vacation on the beautiful beaches of Florida. Many students traveled to tropical destinations to work on their tans and soak up the sun.



Sunbathing on Cocoa Beach, Shelley Swain and Ernie Allen take some time out from the Florida sun. The student's families spent a week of vacation time enjoying the vast beaches and touring the sights.

All Said havin' the final say And Done

When all was said and done, students learned from their high school career that it was the people they met and the friends they made that created high school memories. Most students discovered some aspect about high school that was important to them whether it was the class, extracurricular activity, or interaction with the faculty. But mostly they enjoyed just having the final say.

What did you enjoy the most this year?

"I enjoyed interacting with the friendly faculty."

Latoya Thompson, 10

"I loved playing tennis with my friends in PE."

Neil Pullman, 9

"I loved participating in Mrs. Grimes' Biology class."

Kim Stoltz, 9

On their way for an evening out, juniors Mary-Sue Kuchta, Jamie Todd, and Janie Larned display their excitement for a night to remember. The girls thoroughly enjoyed the Shania Twain concert at the Virginia Beach GTE Ampetheater along with thousands of other adoring fans.

"Are your legs tired? Because you've been running around in my mind all day long." This was a classic phrase used by many young men when attempting to meet a girl. Whether it was at school, work, or parties, most seniors had gained experience with various pick up lines. Four years of high school proved to be merely a prep course for the ones to come in college or career.

Senioritis

As the school year progressd, more and more seniors "got it". Senioritis was a highly contagious condition which became epedimic proportions by spring. Eric Lonning contracted his after being accepted by Wake Forest during the summer. Doing homework and going to class was no longer a priority. Working a job for extra money, making plans to further their education or skills in order to enter the business world became so much more important.

Out of class on a "bathroom break," senior Eric Dears stops junior Adam Appleton in the hall for an armwrestling competition. Many seniors caught "Senioritis" early on in the year as thoughts of graduation came to mind.

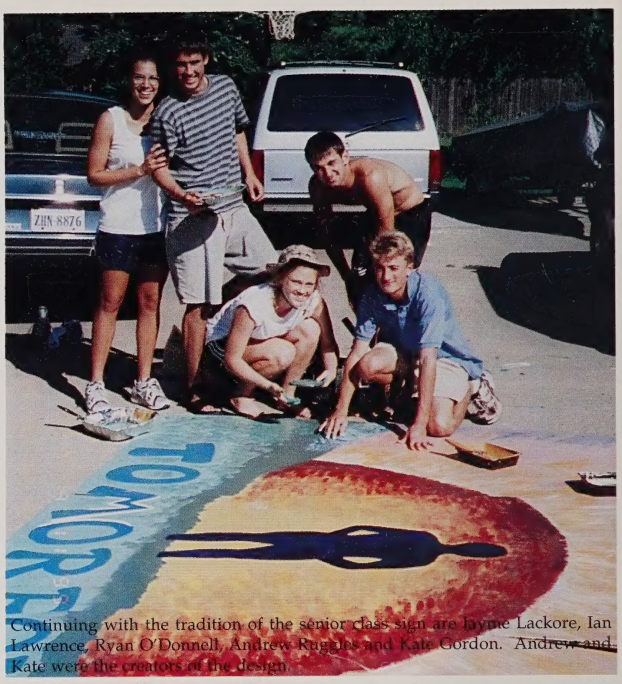
Senior Traditions

Creating and painting the Senior Sign was an honor achieved after enduring the selection process and approval. With several weeks of work, the sign was hung on the front of the building to be viewed by all passer-bys. Other traditions for seniors were obtaining a parking decal before underclassmen; exemption from final exams- if the grade was maintained at a "B"; the annual pig pickin', the tailgate party before the Homecoming game, senior skip day in May, and Gradfest.



Continuing with the tradition of the senior class sign are Lynne Lackore, Ian Lawrence, Ryan O'Donnell, Andrew Ruggles and Kate Gordon. Andrew and Kate were the creators of the design.

Senior Advice to Freshmen

During the first couple of weeks of school, five hundred and sixty excited and anixous freshmen could be seen aimlessly wardering the halls. Contrary to popular belief, most seniors were ready and willing to lend a helping hand to these high school novices. Eventhough some seniors playfully told of the "elevator" in the 600 hall, most remembered their first freshman day and took pity on the newcomers. Senior Andrew Ruggles put it best when he said, "Freshmen are our friends!"

Assisting Ashley Ezell with opening her locker, Michael Rouse gladly helps this freshman. Michael and many other seniors looked on freshmen with fond memories of their own.

The Dating Game

This age old custom came to be one known for its ups and downs, its benefits and drawbacks, but the dating game was just one more aspect of high school that made the days a little more interesting and life a little more hectic. "It's something that's been done for years," says senior Joel Throckmorton. "First Colonial just wouldn't have been the same without Lindsay."

At Junior Prom, seniors Joel Throckmorton and Lindsay Smith smile while enjoying their evening together. Joel and Lindsay had been high school sweethearts for a long time and had gained valuable experience in the art of dating.

Turning 18

At what age was a young person deemed to be classified as an adult? That's right, it's 18. Crossing the bridge from 17 to 18 enitced dreams of nights with later curfews and more privileges such as going to clubs and being able to vote. But with these privileges came also the responsibilities of adulthood. Harlan Hendricks commented, "Turning 18 was pretty cool. There are lots of benefits, but also some drawbacks."

At her 18th birthday party, Allison Barrett serves up some cake to her family and friends. It was a tradition in Allison's family for the birthday person to serve their guests.

"I Will Remember You"

By Sarah Maclachlan

I will remember you. Will you remember me? Don't let your life pass you by. Weep not for the memories. I'm so tired, but I can't sleep. Standing on the edge of something much too deep. Funny how I feel so much but cannot say a word. We are screaming inside, but can't be heard. I will remember you. Will you remember me? Don't let your life pass you by. Weep not for the memories. So afraid to love you, more afraid to lose. Clinging to a past that won't let you choose. But once there was a darkness, a deep and endless night. Gave me everything you had. Oh, you gave me light. I will remember you. Will you remember me? Don't let your life pass you by. Weep not for the memories.

Parking Problems

Let's face it. No one wants to ride the big, yellow, uncomfortable cheesewagon every morning to school. Being a freshman is a good excuse, but when a student becomes a junior they are more than ready to share a ride or drive their own vehicle. Most upperclass students of driving age share this statement, so it's not a surprise that during the first few weeks of school, Mr. Chad Miller's office is swarming with begging, pleading students. For those who are not fortunate enough to be seniors who get top priority, students often rely on their big brothers or sisters to carry them to school each morning. If no sibling is available, there is always mom or dad!

Pausing in the hallway, Brian Lantz and Teresa Floyd steal a hug before their next class. Brian and Teresa got acquainted through the Young Life meetings and activities.

Young Life

On Monday nights, shouts and screams were heard coming from the schola. The source of all the commotion? Young Life! For years now, this club has changed the lives of teens with its positive messages. It was a place where teens met on Monday nights to get away from homework and the house. Students participated in a variety of fun, messy games, sang popular songs, and listened to an important message. Junior Lauren Manion commented, "I was looking for a way to meet new people. Young Life certainly provided me with a way!"

After a long day at school, Andrew Poole attempts to do his daily homework assignment, but gets caught in a daydream. Whether it was at home or at school, students were oftentimes seen daydreaming throughout the day.

Daydreamin'

After staying up late doing homework night after night, tired sophomores were found daydreaming in classes. Sophomores had a lot to think about: driving permits and licences, class fund-raisers, dating, and even school sports. The new block scheduling brought about hour and a half classes, and sophomores found it even more difficult to stay awake during notes and lectures from teachers. Despite all attempts from teachers to keep their students attention for the whole bell, there were always a few students who couldn't seem to keep their eyes open.

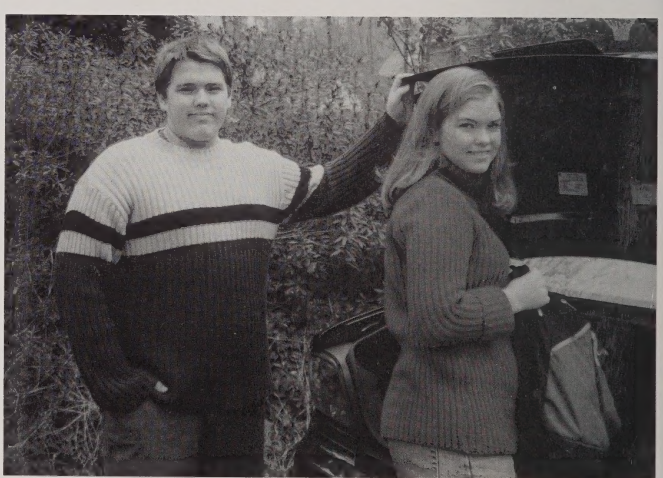
We are Family

Having a younger brother or sister sometimes meant having a "cling-on" or mimic in the same building. As if living closely with someone for eighteen years was bad enough, there were always situations of having to share everything, and above all, experiencing sibling rivalry. But younger children in the family had the advantage of knowing an older sibling at school and gaining extra help navigating the building. At the beginning of school, older siblings were seen roaming the halls, helping their younger brother or sister get comfortable. Senior Cory Cooper said about her freshman sister Jodi, "It was nice being able to take my litte sister around at the beginning of the school year. It was nice knowing I was able to help her out."



Sophomore Kenny Kuchta and his junior sister Mary-Sue prepare to go to school in the morning. Many younger siblings relied on their older brothers and sisters for rides to school everyday.

Displaying that being left-handed really isn't that bad, sophomore Michael Lidett plays the xylophone during band class. Michael found that being a south paw gave him certain advantages as a keyboard player.

South Paws

Whether facing the plate to bat from a different angle, or leaning the opposite way to write a paper, left handed people haven't had it bad just different. The world has always been a right handed place for most people, but others came into the world with a whole different perspective. South Paws or lefties not only wrote with the left hand, but used left-handed scissors and found cutting food was easier with the knife in the left hand. Mike Leydet commented, "because I am left handed I find lockers are easier to open, and I can get to my books quicker." Although Mike is left handed, he has learned over the years to utilize right handed scissors. Where the nickname South Paw came from, no one knows, but we do know that just because some people are left handed they can still do the same tasks as everyone else.

Student Bands

One of the many activities students participated in to escape boredom during their free time from tiresome schoolwork was to join and play in bands. Being in a band let students express their musical talents and perform in front of their peers in places like clubs or just garage shows put together by some friends. Playing in a band helped form strong bonds between friends and also provided a little extra money. The music of the bands ranged from reggae to rock and roll, and from punk rock to alternative rock. For the past several years, student formed bands had the opportunity to express their talents and show off during the annual "Battle of the Bands." Young bands coveted the first place spot which helped them gain the opportunity for wider recognition.

Rockin' out at a gig in Virginia Beach, The Transition plays in front of a group of kids. These sophomores and juniors have been playing throughout the state of Virginia since they started last summer.

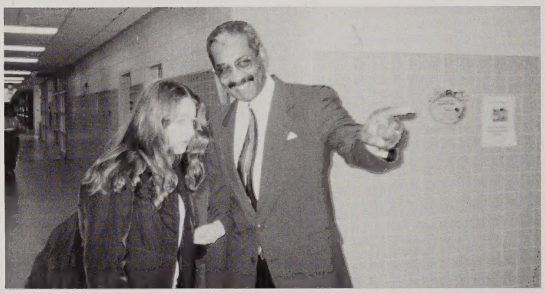
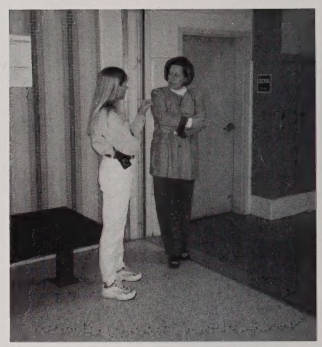
Administrative Team

New Faces and Personalities

Gathering together, Carol Anthony, Carlton Hill, Dr. Hazel Jessee, Lindell Wallace, and Gail Chuy, capture a rare moment together. With their busy schedules, it was refreshing for the administrative team to take a short break.



In the early morning hours, Jessica Surbaugh, a freshman, asks Mr. Wallace for directions to her first block class. Mr. Wallace, who had already retired from the school system and graciously agreed to fill one of the assistant principal positions for the remainder of the year, enjoyed helping students.



Getting ready for a hall sweep, Mrs. Gail Chuy and Bonney Courtney wait for the final bell at the entrance to the 300 hall. Hall sweeps were begun to discourage tardiness.

The administrative teams' express love of working with young people was evident in their dedication of trying to understand the student's problems. They demonstrated their support throughout the year by attending sporting events, fine arts programs and various awards ceremonies. Through their words and actions, they were able to keep the school united and moving forward.

New Principal

Continuing the Tradition of Excellence

In her first year as a high school principal, Dr. Hazel Jesse has definitely proven herself to be a strong advocate of education. Her consistant support and dedication throughout the school year to the sports teams, the drama program and all extracurricular activities have uplifted the spirits of many. Dr. Jessee conquered the task of making our school the best it could be by frequently monitoring or roaming the halls at different intervals with a smile and making sure that students got to class on time. She also made it a point to be available to anyone who had a problem of any kind. We were very proud to have Dr. Jesse as a new edition to the First Colonial family.

Preparing the agenda for the next department chair meeting, Dr. Jessee carefully priorities the subject matter to be covered. Dr. Jessee brought a new degree of high organization and discipline to the staff.

Meeting at the teacher mailboxes, Dr. Jessee and Mrs. Suzanne Radamacher greet each other before the school day begins. Dr. Jessee always greeted the staff and students with a smile and warm hello each morning.

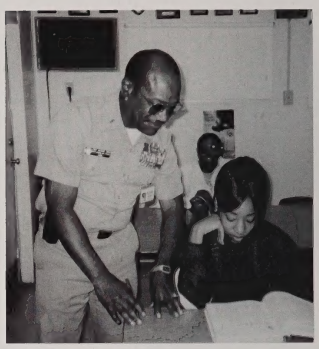
Teacher of the Year

Chief Warrant Officer Ed Mebane



Assisting Vernita Bennett with an assignment, Mr. Mebane explains how to locate the coordinates of the sea lanes for U.S. Navy ships. It was necessary for cadets to understand the importantance for ships to stay in lanes and obey international law. While Navy ships were not commercial, they still came under the law which had to be obeyed by all vessels. In Mr. Mebane's years of Naval instruction in public education, he has always demanded the best from his cadets while providing them with his best. He has been a prime example of discipline, fairness and fun to all students.

Even though he was selected as Teacher of the Year, Chief Warrant Officer Ed Mebane never slows down on getting his work done. C.W.O. Mebane set very high standards in his own life and practiced them as an example for those around him.

As the morning roll is called by cadet Nathaniel Hubbard, Mr. Mebane quickly interrupts for some important news. Mr. Mebane was well known for his rapport with all the cadets and student body.

All Said crossin' the finish line And Done

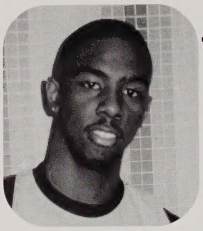
"Playing soccer with Jarrod Smith."

Larry Craig, 12



"When we went to regionals in basketball. We lost, but we lost with pride."

Mike Rouse, 12

"When I played in a basketball game, the cheerleaders chanted my name."

Courtney Seamon, 9

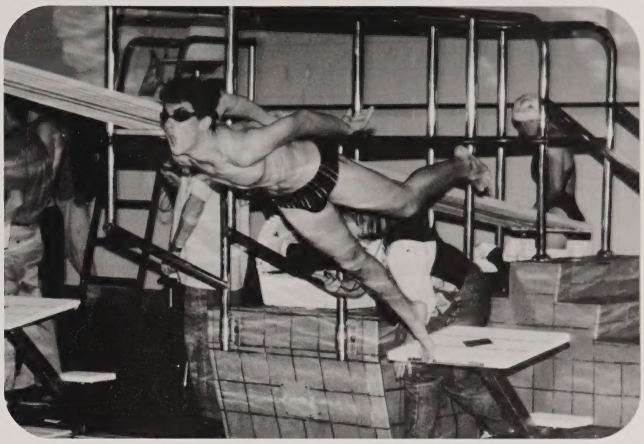
What's your favorite sports memory?

Whether it was kicking a field goal to receive an extra point, attempting to stick a landing, blocking the spike, or crossing the finish line, this year the Patriots really shined through in every sport. The proud Patriot sports family proved that when a team entered their territory, they were a force to be reckoned with. When all was said and done, Patriots came out on top and crossed the finish line.

With great swiftness and concentration, Sylvia O'Conner attempts to retrieve the ball from the Kellam Knights. The girls' offensive team was strong, making for a near undefeated season.

After a shot made by the opposing team, Corey Dutko jumps high to make the rebound. Corey, a newcomer to the team, proved to be a precious asset to a winning Patriot season.

At the sound of the gun, junior Steven Hawley makes a leaping dive into the water. A fast start was a vital part of coming in first during a swim meet.



Using every ounce of energy, Ashley Ezell strives toward the finish line. The Cross Country team practiced long and hard in order to compete in their strenuous meets.

At a home wrestling match, Varsity cheerleaders Erica Lee, Allison Mitchell, and Crystal Tubbs lead the supportive and enthusiastic crowd in a chant. Through many Patriot wins and losses, the cheerleaders were always there to spur on any team.

Ready at the starting line, Palmer Roberts anxiously awaits the signal. A good start off the block was important to gain an edge in time against the opposition in relay sprinting.

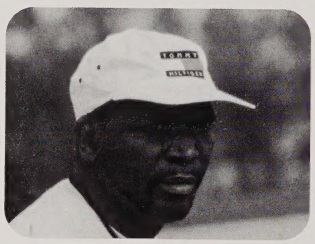
"EVERY MAN MUST PADDLE HIS OWN CANOE"-FREDERICK MARRYAT

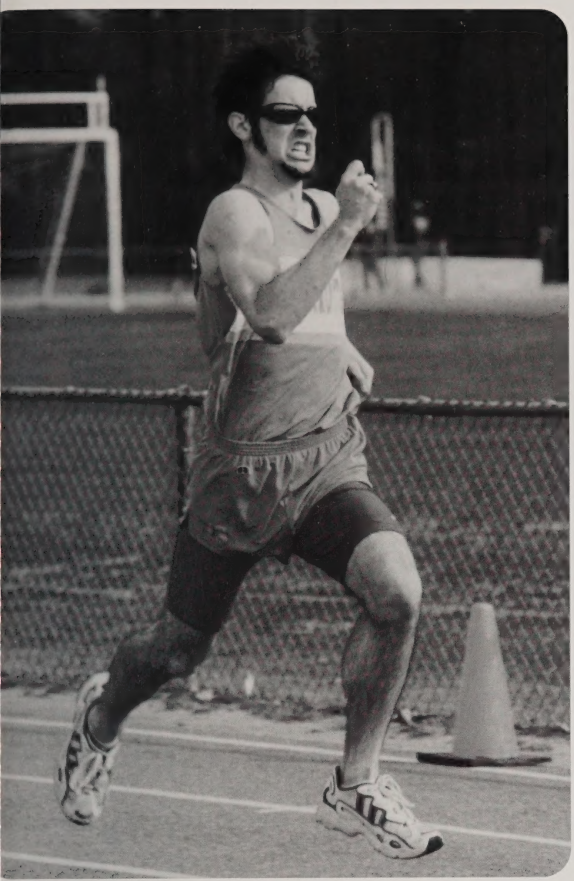
Sprinting through an outstanding season, the 1999 Outdoor Track team finished with a respectable sixth place in the district and fourteenth overall. The team's strengths included sprinters, long, and triple jumpers that pulled through for a memorable season. Because of a few minor setbacks due to multiple running injuries, the team had some difficult meets. But under the circumstances"we were an altogether success" remarked girls' coach Leslie Benjamin. The leading sprinter for the team was Shaunta Gibbs, followed by Mary Colasanto, and Ricky Pittman.



Coach Leslie Benjamin

Jumping high into the air, senior Ricki Pittman balances himself for a far landing into the sand. The long jump was Ricki's favorite event and one in which he excelled.

Passing the Tallwood runners with excessive speed, Tonya Boone upsets th sprinters. The match against the Lions provided the teams' most memorabl victory for the season.



Racing toward the finish line, Ryan Reagan speeds past the other runners. Winning a close third place, Ryan's sprinting made for many exciting meets.

In a swift handoff to the next runner, Kira Brown passes the baton to a fellow teamate Kira's speed and quick thinking helped the team to place second in the meet.

With an amazing leap over the high jump, senior Ali Mitchell successfully clears the bar. Ali's favorite event was the high jump as well as the hurdles.

Varsity bringin' it home Softball

Beginning their season with high hopes, the Varsity Girls' Softball team was enthusiastic and motivated. Coach Scarborough encouraged the girls through their daily practice routines and conditioning. He commented "I had more fun coaching this team than any other team I had in the past." Key players for the season were Jenny Bell, Liz Drew and Audrey Harris. Jenine Land was selected as the Most Improved Player. The girls look forward to heading into next season, full of determination and diligence.

Coach Sam Scarborough

After getting some essential advice during halftime, the team breaks out of their huddle. Coach Scarborough's word were pertinant to motivating the team for the next play.

Stepping up to the plate, Shannon Pfeiffer gets ready to bat. Shannon's batting strength was well known to the opposing teams who dreaded seeing her come to bat.

Taking a powerful swing at the pitch, Jenny Bell attempts to hit the ball and get on base. Jenny's batting average for the season was one of the highest on the team.

"HOPE IS A WAKING DREAM" - ARISTOTLE

About to walk to the plate, Krystle Harris listens attentively to Coach Scarbourough. The advice and guidance the team received from their coach allowed them to learn and develop their skills.

Senior Liz Drew awaits for the coach's signal to steal second base. Liz successfully stole second base during the Bayside game which helped advance the team to score that inning.

Giving the team sign, Morgan Bosch, Jenny Bell, Mary Colosanto, Liz Drew, and Audrey Harris pose at the annual Spring Sports and Awards Banquet. The girls enjoyed the season's activities and friendships made among fellow teammates.

"IT IS OFTEN EASIER TO FIGHT FOR PRINCIPLES THAN TO LIVE UP TO THEM." -ADLAI STEVENSON

Watching the pitch whiz by, junior Mike Suppa draws another walk for the Patriots. Mike was the designated hitter for the team and could always be relied on to get to first base.

Varsity bringin' it home Baseball

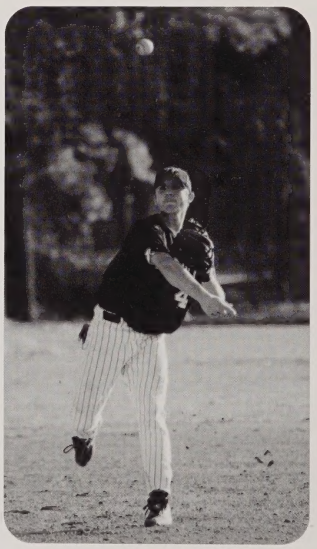
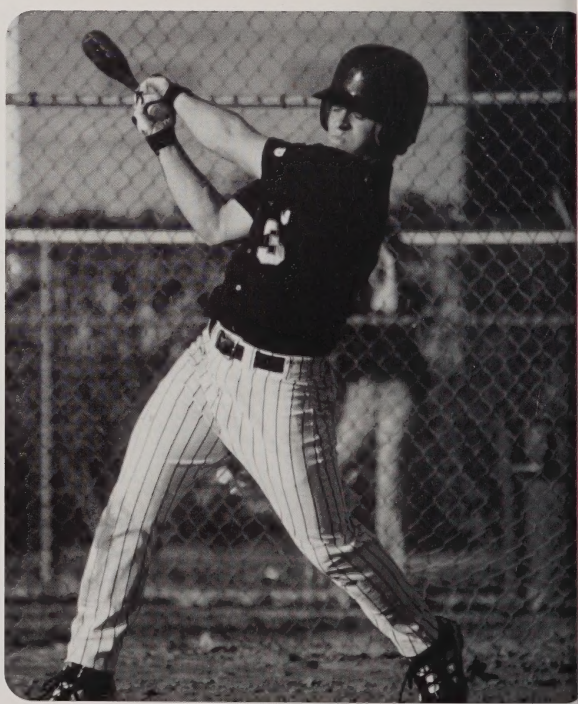
The 1999 Varsity Baseball team relied on hitting and solid defense to guide them into the state tournament. The preseason began with spring conditioning which helped build endurance and team unity. Coach Norbie Wilson commented," the team hit a snag in the early part of the season when they lost three straight games, but came together as champions to beat nationally ranked West Springfield in the state tournament". Although the Patriots will lose key senior starters, the next season promises a high possibility of competing for the state championship.

Coach Norbie Wilson

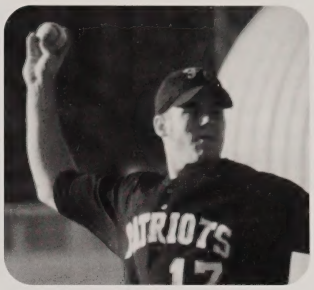


Throwing the ball to first base, junior third base man Clay Friske forces an out. Clay's strong and accurate throwing and fielding abilities were his most valuable assets.



With a big swing, sophomore Steve Parker gets another base hit. Steve wa one of the primary starters for the team with his clutch hit specialty.

Another outstanding play is made by senior Kevin Knowles as he tags a sliding player at second base. Kevin was a returning starter and was voted one of the team's Most Valuable Players.



With great speed and force, senior Matt Clark throws another strike out for the Patriots. Matt was a two year starter and was one of the most consistent pitchers for the team.

Before facing the next pitch, senior Jon Sanderlin pauses to regroup. Jon was the starting catcher as well as a very reliable hitter.

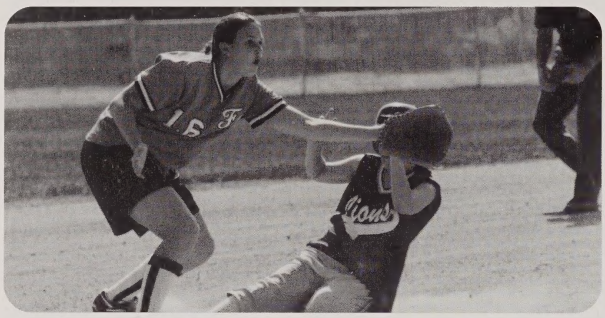
"IN GREAT ATTEMPTS IT IS GLORIOUS EVEN TO FAIL."-CASSIUS LONGINUS

The Junior Varsity Softball team showed vast improvement over previous years. With their awesome defense and "never-give-up" attitude, the team proudly ended a season like no other.

Key players such as Tiffany Coulombe, Magdalena Torres, Stephanie Duvall, and Jessica Umholtz shined through especially during those close, intense games. Beating Kellam at the bottom of the eighth inning was definitely a memorable moment for the team. The fact that "these athletes stuck together through good days and bad," impressed Coach Beam throughout the entire season.

At the spring sports banquet, accolades were awarded to Tiffany Coulombe and Stephanie Duvall for Most Valuable Player and Most Improved Player of the season, respectively.

Hanging around in the dugout, Kelly Brown, Kelly Garwood, and Erin Musgro psyche up before their game starts. The team's "never give up" attitude w strengthened by the players' friendships and unity.



Gingerly reaching for the ball, Jessica Umholtz strives to complete a double play. Jessica caught the ball, got the runner out at second and passed it off to first.

Keeping her eye on the ball, Mindy Ess prepares for a powerful hit. Mindy slammed the ball into left outfield and made a mad dash for first base.

Getting off to a slow start but ending the season strongly, the Junior Varsity Baseball team had an intense and competitive year. Lead by Coach Chris Parsons, the team wrapped up the season with victories over Kellam 9-7 and Green Run 7-0. In tough situations, the boys really showed how they could work as one and defeat their opponents.

The most improved players last season were Louie Strom and David Cramer. Other key players included several Most Valuable Players: Bobby Isenberg, Lyle McElhaney, Mike Smith, Jason Buonviri, and Brett Vambell. According to Coach Parsons, "the team's main strength was their powerful hitting." The boys hope to return next season stronger and more disciplined, ready to come out on top.

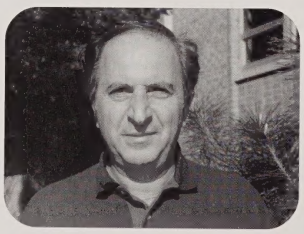
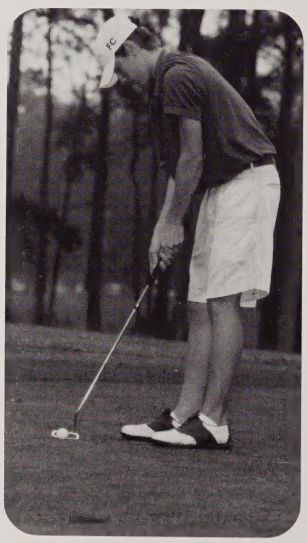
Coached by Leo Anthony, the Varsity Golf Team completed a very successful season. Led by the team's MVP Blair Townsend, the team was unstoppable and unbeatable. Along the way, the Golf team endured numerous tough matches and individual competitions. Captains of this years team were Max Hoes, Chris Horan and Andrew Ruggles. With more than 400 wins already to his credit, Coach Anthony is looking forward to an exciting season next year.



Coach Leo Anthony



Junior Blair Townsend eyes the ball as he prepares to sink it in the hole. The Patriots putting ability helped them bring home many victories.

With his club raised in the air, Mike Giglotti watches the ball soar toward the hole. Mike's powerful swing enabled him to drive the ball far.

Surveying the distance for his next shot, Jeff Biggs contemplates which club to choose. Selecting the right club was essential in attaining good golf performance.

With extreme precision, senior Max Hoes aims his club at the hole. Max's golf skills won him a scholarship to Belmont University in Nashville, Tennessee.

Despite the steadily falling rain, senior Chris Horan attempts to shoot a hole in one. Grace under pressure was exemplified by all the Patriot golf team members.

Girls' kickin' grass Varsity Soccer

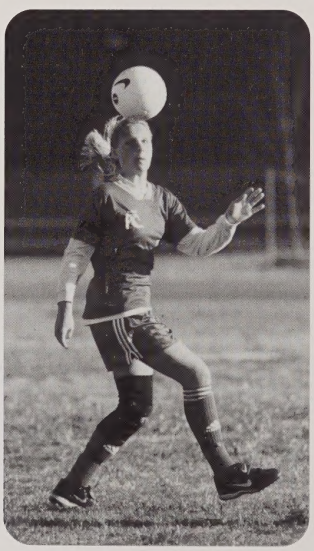
The Girls' Varsity Soccer team had a successful season with only three district loses. The preseason showcase tournament built up the anticipation for the victorious season with three shut-out wins. The girls showed vast improvement as they gained strength and endurance. Spirits soared and friendships formed, helping the girls keep a positive mentality. Of all the victories this team had, the most memorable was the 1-0 victory against Kempsville. Overall, winning the Division Champion Title made it the most productive season.

Coach Janet Rowlands



Giving the ball a good head, Sara Polino makes a flexible manuever. She was renowned for her ability to handle such situations throughout the entire season.

As she approaches the ball, Jayme Lackore uses wise decision-making to plan her next move.. Each of the girls had to think quickly on their feet in order to win games.

"EXCUSE MY DUST."-DOROTHY PARKER

Kicking the ball downfield, Becca McClain saves the team once again. Her defensive tactics kept many goals from being scored.

Pointing out different plays on the field, Coach Rowlands instructs Jennifer Leonard about different moves. Her coaching strategies helped lead the girls into a victorious and successful season.

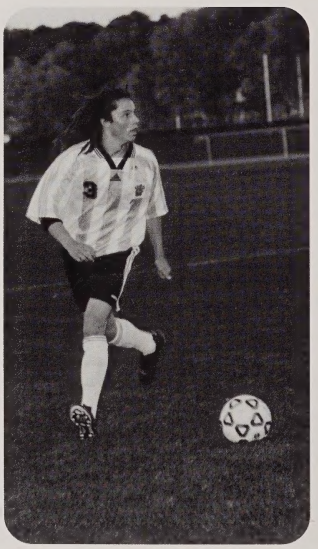
Amongst the most difficult circumstances, the Boy's Varsity Soccer Team held their composure with strong character and fortitude. The team suffered a loss nearly halfway through the season due to the tragic death of a beloved teammate and friend. In memory of Jarrod Smith, the team wore black arm bands for the remainder of the season. After a midseason slump, the team went on to win 5 games in a row, finishing with 10 wins, 2 ties, and 4 losses. Larry Craig and Ryan Withers were both named to the Beach District first team. The boys hope to return next season strong as ever, capturing many victories.

Coach Joe Tucei



Looking for a man down the field, Jake Gelnett lines up for a pass. Jake's quick thinking and strategy skills were crucial to the execution of this play.

With extreme speed, Colin Young cuts through the opposition and makes his way toward the goal. Colin's nimble feet proved to be helpful in scoring during the season.

With victory written on his face, Gordon Templeman makes his move. Gordon's striking power and strength were assets which allowed him to keep the team moving ahead.

Using his fantastic ball control, Andrew Walker strides down the field. Andrew's abilities permitted him to be considered a key player even as a freshman.

Carefully retrieving the ball before it rolls out of bounds, Mike Brinn slides in for the save. Mike's midfield save kept the Ocean Lakes forward from stealing the ball.

Girls' playin' smart Jr. Varsity Soccer

"ATTACK-REPEAT-ATTACK."-WILLIAM FREDERICK HALSEY, JR.

With their dedication and willingness to give 110% at all times on the field, the Girls' JV soccer team ended a competitive season with a spectacular record of 8-1. "The girls played hard, strong and smart throughout the entire season," stated Coach Staci McCoy. The Key players Christin Miller, Michelle Foster, Allison Mercker, Lindsey Palmiero, Stephanie Granger, Chrissy Ogura, Kate Barcus and goalie Christy Nesselrode led the team through intense and challenging games, such as the first win over Cox in 8 seasons. Practicing every day after school helped to develop a strong offensive and defensive threat. Their skill was evident throughout the season and resulted in six shutouts. The girls finished the season out with a near perfect record.

Utilizing her outstanding footwork, Stephanie Granger takes control from a Tallwood defender. Stephanie's quick thinking paid off, and helped the Patriots to an easy 4-0 win.

Unleashing a powerful shot on the opposing team, Rian Andrews kicks the ball with all her momentum. The girls were no stranger to the back of the net, scoring a total of 48 goals all season long,

With blinding speed, Chrissy Ogura moves in for the finish. Throughout the year Chrissy's speed earned her a spot on the starting roster.

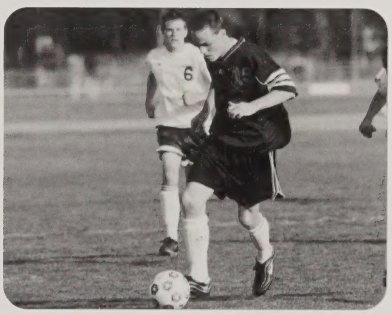
Going up for the header, Michael Maugeri, trys to score one in the goal. Michael managed to give the opposing team's goalie a real workout with this play.

The JV Boys' Soccer pulled together this year and had an excellent season. They quickly formed a strong bond with the new freshman arrivals to ride out the tough teams they encountered. Coach Matt "Braveheart" Wallace was strict and persistent, but the tough love paid off. The Patriots finished the season with a 7-0-2 record. Coach Wallace commented, "I'm glad the team could overcome the obstacles that we faced." Lou Palmiero and Mike Mageri were the driving force behind the guys' motivation. "Whenever we got down, Mike and I did the best we could to get the team pumped up again," said Lou. This team looks forward to being successful in the years to come.

"REJOICE, WE ARE VICTORIOUS."-PHEIDIPPIDES



Skillfully dribbling towards the goal, Michael Reefo executes his offensive play. Michael's quick reation and strategic thinking was a major contribution which kept the team together and organized.

Girls' swingin' thru Tennis

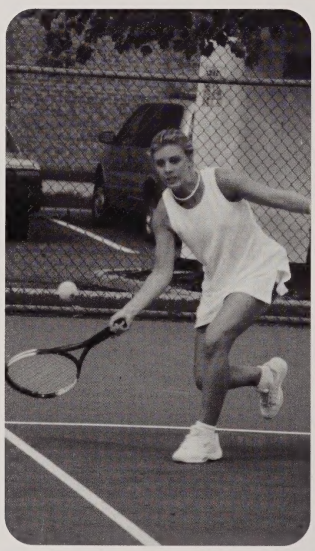
Yet again, the Girls' tennis team finished off an excellent season. With new and returning talent, the team had a solid line-up from top to bottom that was tough to beat. Practice twice a day, started in the middle of the summer to train the girls to their annual trip to states. But above all, the vibrant attitude, put together with amazing team spirit made the season unforgettable. Senior Michelle Chung states, "Looking back at the four years , I'd have to say that the most memorable part is not the hard work and triumph, but the fun I had with all of the girls."

Coach Laurie Shiflet-Hackbirth



Swinging back with perfect form, Laurie Morgan consistantly returns her balls. As a freshman, Laurie was an amazing asset at the number two position.

During switchovers, Amber Miller makes friendly conversation with opponent. Good sportsmanship and friendliness were one of the ma commendable characteristics of the team.

Boys' servin' it up Tennis

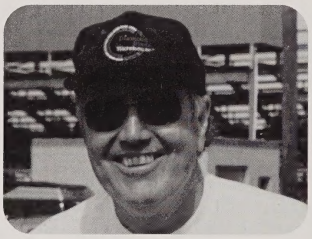
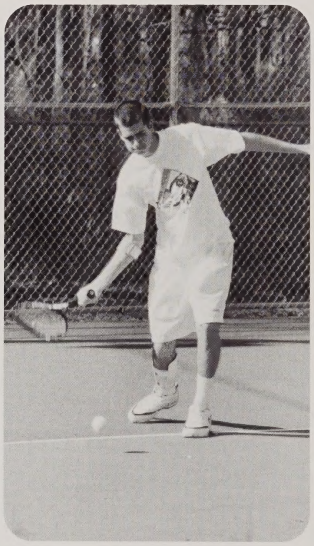
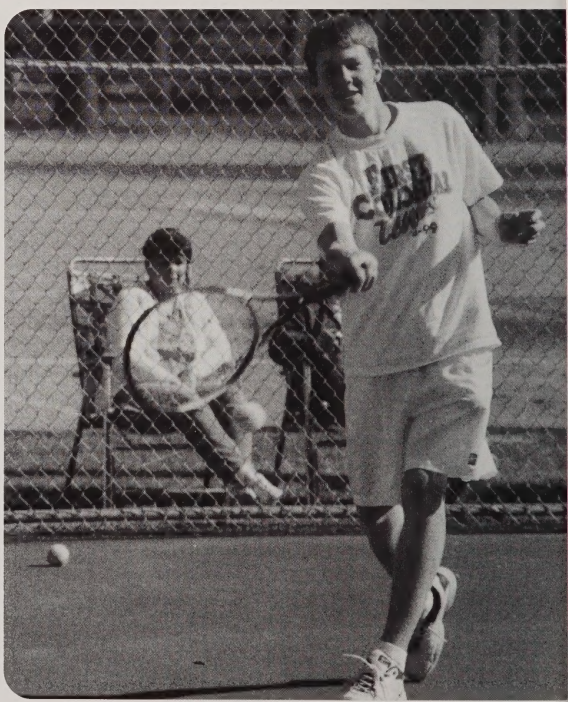
In a season full of intense and very long matches, the Boys' Tennis team finished with a 4-6 record. Coach James Mather commented, "we had great parental support for the team which helped the boys tremendously." Key starters for the team were Todd Detweiler, Dustin Rich, Sean Sands, Trey Highton, and Eric Fonda. The boys truly demonstrated skill and determination when they defeated Kellam in a match that lasted until 10:00 p.m. At the end of the season, Eric Fonda was named Most Valuable Player, while John Antle was given the Most Improved Award.



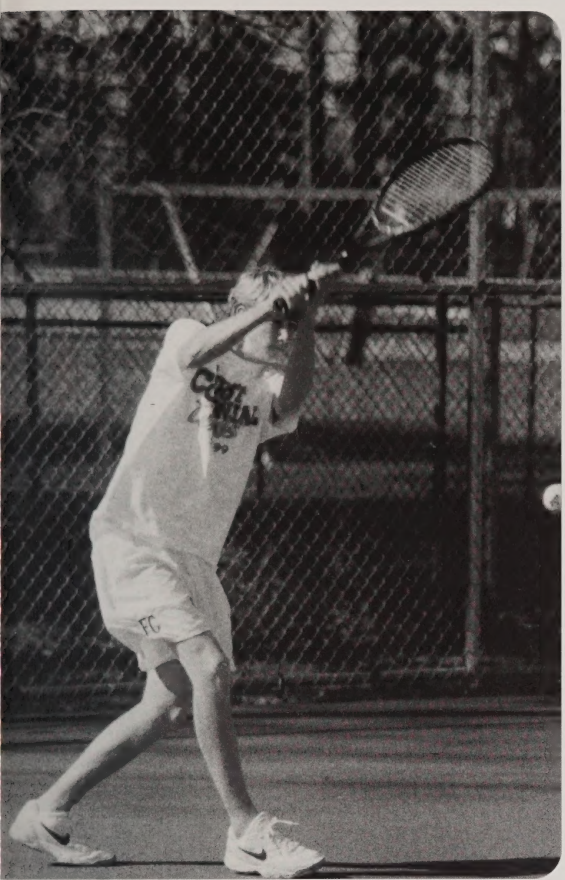
Coach James Mather



Recovering from a broken leg, Sean Sands maintains his balance long enough to return the ball. Sean's determination helped him to improve even when it looked like he would not play for a long time.



As he is quite pleased with his play, Chris Grulke focuses on his follo through. Chris's splendid technique throughout the entire year helped hi to move up to a starting position.



As Todd Detweiler returns a graceful backhand to his unexpecting opponent, he displays his excellent technique. Todd enjoyed using the element of surprise at every opportunity which helped him remain in the number one position.

Returning the serve, Junior Eric Fonda delivers a blistering forehand to the opposition. Eric's accuracy and consistency were a valuable asset to the team.

As Coach Mather gives support and advice for the next play, the boys listen intently. Mather's unique coaching style and positive attitude helped the entire team become united.

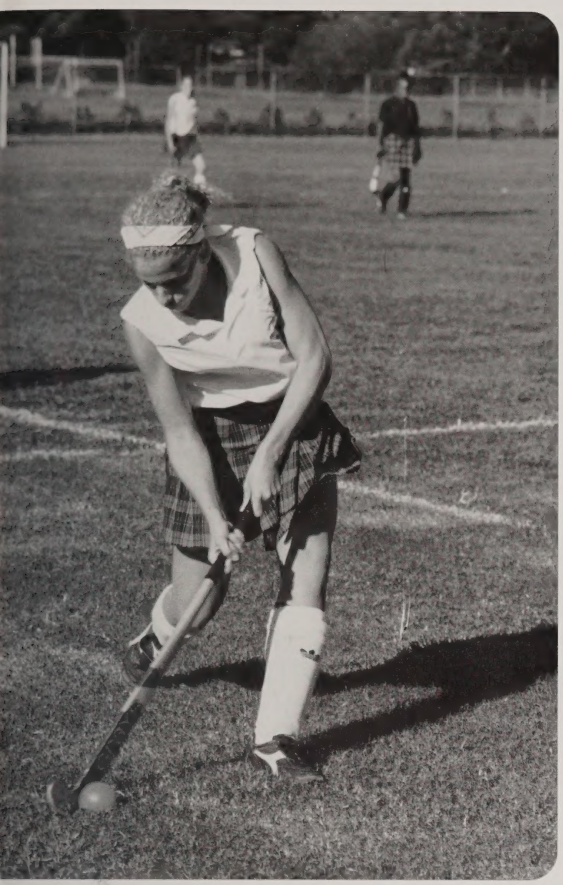
Starting off their season with an unanticipated six game rally, the Girls' Varsity Field Hockey team surprised not only their opponents but spectators as well. Although the team consisted of young players, they still made a name for themselves as a difficult competitor throughout the season. The girls are expected to be even stronger next year since they will only lose three seniors. Center mid-fielder Lindsay Kirby commented, "Since this was our first really strong season in a while, I believe we're going to be district champs next year."

Coach Susan Callahan

Getting ready to push-pass the ball to a teammate, Silvia O'Conner concentrates on the ball. Dribbling downfield and moving the ball back and forth were two of her strong points this season.

Saving the ball from going out of bounds, Brooke Blanchard moves upfi toward the goal. Brooke, an outside wing, served as an outlet to pass to wh enabled the team to score more goals.



Preparing to drive the ball upfield, senior Laura Machaj shows good form. She, along with the other two seniors, proved to be good examples of strong leadership and dedication for the younger players.

Aiding her fellow teammate, senior Monique Cooke serves as a back-up defender. When Monique wasn't guarding the most dangerous opponent on the other team, she effectively helped defend our goal.

Holding a half-time meeting, the girls circle around Coach Callahan for a motivational talk. Coach Callahan always kept a positive attitude concerning plays and strategies in order to keep a high team spirit.

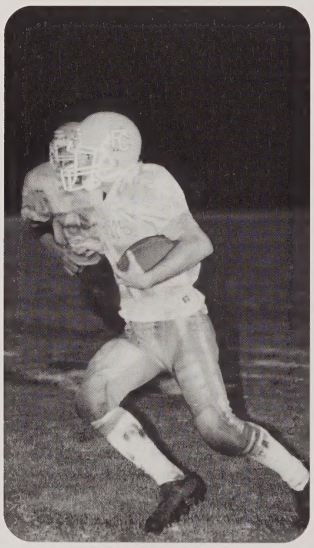
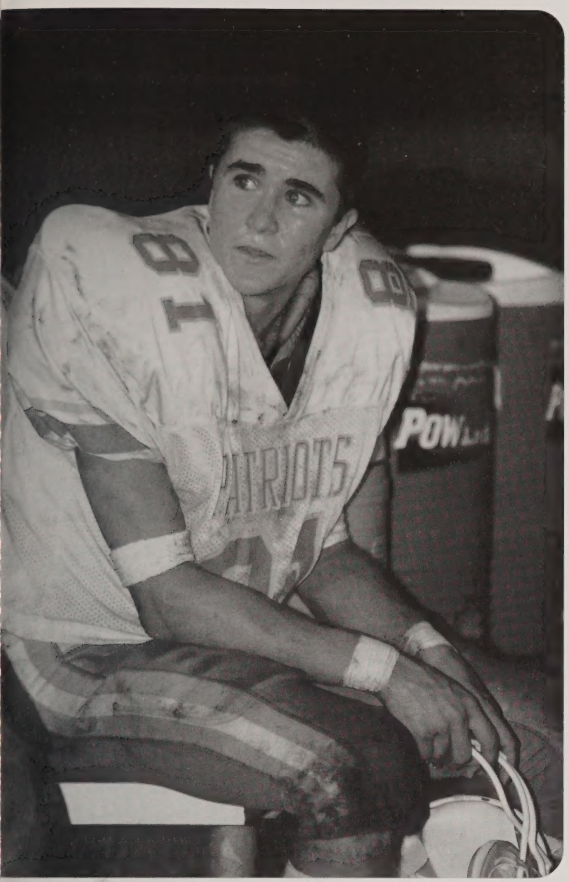
Coach Frank Webster



Cutting to the inside, senior Chris Smith takes the pass and wades through the defenders. Chris' valuable ability to gain yards after the catch, greatly helped the team to maintain game momemtum.

With a comfortable lead, senior Eric Lonning and sophmore Tim Amido joke around on the sideline. Eric and Tim were very serious players on th field, but enjoyed good humor when the time was right.



While taking a break, junior David Cramer receives some instruction from Coach Webster for the next play. David was a hustler on and off the field.

With power and determination, kicker Harlan Hendricks attempts to score an extra point for the Patriots. Harlan placed another point on the scoreboard which helped defeat the Knights.

As the team captains shake hands, the Patriots and Knights wish each other good luck before the game. Good sportsmanship was not only taught by all the football coaches, but was also required from all their players.

"ENVY CAN BE A POSITIVE MOTIVATOR. LET IT INSPIRE YOU TO WORK HARDER FOR WHAT YOU WANT." - ROBERT BRINGLE

Finishing the year with an impressive season, the undefeated Junior Varsity Field Hockey team displayed a strong offensive and defensive presence that assisted them in overpowering their opponents. Under their new coach Bonnie Courtney, team work and togetherness became a valued asset to the team. The most memorable moment of the season was when the team tied Cox in a game, and later tied with Cox for first in the city district meet. Key players this season included Stephanie Duvall and Megan Whitehurst, as the team's MVP's, and Brittany Doyle, as Most Improved Player.

Gathering the team to discuss strategies, Coach Bonnie Courtney details the n play to be used against Salem. Coach Courtney also allowed the girls to give th input of how they could better play the game.

As she gains control of the ball, Megan Whitehurst prevents the opponent from stealing. Megan's quick-to-take-control talent on the field helped her become the team's Most Valuable Player.

Showing determination, Stephanie Duvall fights for control of the ball. Stephanie's persistance allowed her to make a shot downfield to a fellow teammate.

After making a great catch, Brandon Wilson dodges several Kellam defenders. Brandon was successful in moving the play to the inzone.

Improving their overall position for the last two years, the J.V. Football team ended with a 5-1 for the season. The most intense game was with Bayside. Due to Brett Vambell and Chris Checcie being out with injuries, Spencer Bolander lead the team as their quarterback. In the last quarter he drove the length of the field with an 80 yard drive to win the game. Assistant coach Hines commented, " These guys proved to themselves that if they worked together they could accomplish anything. After losing to Kellam, the boys came on strong to beat Salem 28-7." The team's MVP was Brandon Wilson; selected as Most Improved Player was Anthony Kerney; Best Offensive Player was Brent Vanbel andvoted as the Best Defensive Player was Adam Arsuaga.

As the center hikes the ball, sophomore Brett VamBell concentrates on the coming play. Brett displayed keen foresight which allowed the team to keep the opposition always guessing.

Beginning the season a little late due to coach selection, the gymnastics team was finally headed by Coach Karen Tilton. The girls steadily improved in confidence throughout the season, and their skills and techniques were strengthened and further developed by each day's three hour practice session. Sarah Davis commented, "The most memorable two meets were against Green Run and Bayside where we beat them". Key members were: Lucille Holmes, Becky Handforth, Devon Mac Connell and Aubry Weggener. The Most Improved Player was Sarah Davis.

The Dance team performs a smashing number on the football field at the Homecoming pep rally. The girls had many opportunities to dazzle audiences of large numbers at school events throughout the year.

Dance steppin' out Team

Performing with professionalism and style, the dance team completed a dynamic season of service. The improvement in skill was evident to all fans who enjoyed routines set to various selections of radio hits; the most favorite being "Bugaboo." Besides the annual home football and basketball games, the dance team performed at the freshman orientation and the Mr. F C pageant. Co-Captains Cassie Anthony and Laurie Quinn helped boost team spirit by leading the girls through an exciting season. In the future, the dance team hopes to participate in competitions and display their talent with the best.

Facing a challenging year, the wrestling team was able to pull through their season with a combination of great heart and dedication. They practiced countless hours after school to perfect their skills and techniques. Coach Bothel named Todd Berry, senior, as the Most Valuable Player for his sportsmanship and aggressive drive on the mat. Being members of the team for many years, Alex Winfield, Joel Throckmorton and Chris Smith added to the strength of the team's ability to pin their opponents.

Cheering

When the Patriots were down and out and the crowd was less than enthusiasic, cheerleaders were always prepared to use school pride to boost spirit in the team and fans. The Junior Varsity Cheering squad used a variety of cheers and learned several stunts which kept the players motivated and the crowd involved. Combining strength, coordination, and energy the J.V. Cheering squad put forth great effort in order to accomplish their tasks. The girls performed bold stunts, cheers, and chants that kept the crowd entertained and enthused. All the hours of practice that the girls put in over the summer and after school paid off for them when they received thunderous applause at sporting events. Because the fall and winter sports required long hours of cheering, the girls worked extra hard to prepare themselves physically.

Raising her hands in spirit, Ashley Holdcraft shows her enthusiasm for the footh crowd. Cheerleaders enjoyed cheering for the fans as well as getting the cro involved in their many games.

Performing a dance move, Alisha Boone hypes the crowd with her loud chants and lively movements. During all JV football games, the fans were amazed at the synchronization and talent the girls possesed.

Attempting to inspire the crowd, the girls demonstrate their latest routine during a football game. With precise moves and spirited smiles, they easily pumped up the players and the crowd.

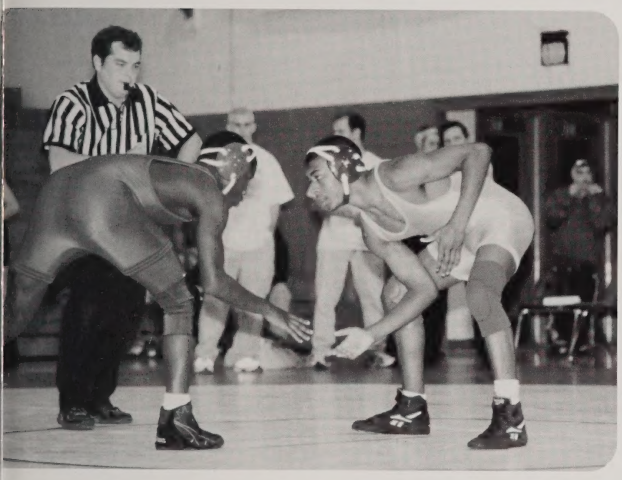
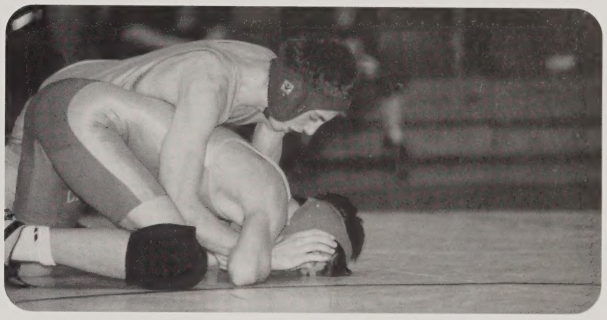
Following the tradition of excellence, the JV Wrestling team worked dilligently until they were able to take down the majority of their opponents. With special diets to follow, conditioning and daily practices the young team developed swift moves and strategy for certain situations. When it came time to compete, every wrestler was successful in winning at least one match. Coach Bothel commented, "I'm very excited about the next few years. With these guys moving to varsity, we'll be very hard to beat." Team members displayed their skills and strategies learned during each match. With great attitudes and long distance endurance, the wrestlers showed excellent Patriot pride by never giving up. The team as a whole worked consistently to support each other in all the meets and workouts.





Maintaining a hold on his opponent, Jesse Staton displays his strength and endurance. Jesse proved himself to be a formidable contender throughout the season.

Science experimentin' Clubs

The end of the school year was approaching, and the guidance counselors were getting ready for next year. You asked yourself, "What science do I sign-up for? There are so many choices!" As we had all figured out, there was such a variety of science courses that the options fit just about anyone. Freshmen experienced a new route as they were given the freedom to choose a schedule fitting their common interests. "It was nice having more choices than last year," said freshman Jon Hughes. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors were afforded the opportunity to enroll in college-prep courses such as, AP Biology, AP Chemistry, AP Physics, and AP Environmental Science. Biology, Earth Science, Chemistry, Oceanography, and Physics were also offered. For students with a greater interest in Science, Mrs. Keener, Mrs. Taliaferro, and Mrs. J. Grimes put together numerous clubs for increased student involvement. Mrs. Keener sponsored the AWARE club and Chemistry Honor Society. What do you like most about your math class?

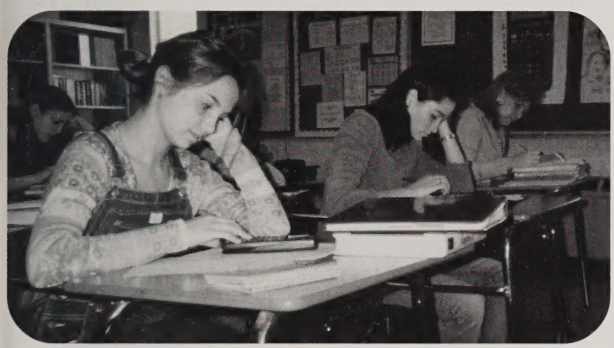
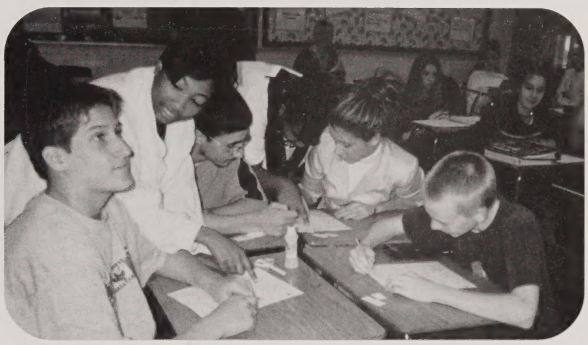
Mathe- summin' it up -matics

Math was almost a language itself with words like tangent, slope, and standard deviation. No longer could math be considered a subject to breeze through or be as easy as 1,2,3. Starting with Algebra 1 to AP Calculus, students could choose from a wide variety of courses. Classes were designed specifically to meet everyone's needs and paces. Math teachers had the challenging job of making the connection between students and the material. Because of the degree of complexity, math teachers were often met with furrowed brows and questioning looks. However, constant discussion in the classroom between students and teachers cleared up much of the confusion. Homework in math classes was a given as was long equations on the dry erase board. Students could always expect to run out of paper in their math class due to extensive notetaking especially if they choose to take a math course each year of high school. But good preparation for tests and quizzes was crucial to earning a good grade so many students formed study groups to make the work more fun. Whether graphing an equation, finding the area of a triangle, or integrating, math courses were vital to the educational process and to helping students learn the best way of summin' it up.



Algebra 2/Trig

Diana Eballar and Mary Ann Pieres work diligently on their Algebra 2/trig test. Students realized the importance of preparation in order to maintain their grades.

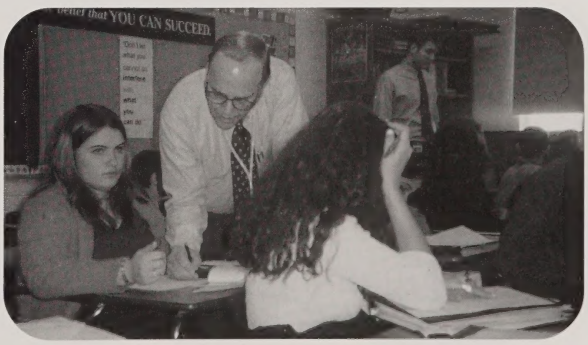


Intro to Algebra I

In Mrs. Steinberg's Algebra class, Jordan Cahoon, Steven Bass, Ian Brown, Branca Blair, Alicia Lynch, and Ashley Hammond work together in an effort to solve an equation. Group work was an essential daily activity that was utilized to help build team work ethics.

AP Statistics

Mr. Kooken's AP Statistics class looks on attentivley as he reviews the process of hypothesis testing. Math classes required complete concentration for the students to understand the concept being taught.



Algebra II

Helping students with difficult problems, Mr. Schultz further explains the formula at hand. Personal attention was often needed for students to excell.

"MUCH HAVE I TRAVLD IN THE REALMS OF GOLD, AND MANY GOODLY STATES AND KINGDOMS SEEN."-JOHN KEATS

The various functions of any society were the topic for numerous discussions held in Social Studies classes. Whether a student sought intellectual enrichment from current events, governmental issues, or the world's history, the social science classes allowed for academic involvement. Students looked to teachers for insight into important issues. Teachers were always looking to learn valuable lessons from students who brought ingenuity and pride to the classroom. Fellowship was strongest among the students who shared a common interest in issues concerning government and affairs of our country. Students, who shared a passion for issues concerning government and affiars of our country, formed clubs which helped to stimulate debate and kept them aware of current events. Political party identification was already becoming a concern for som students. Club meetings give students the opportunity to discuss and debate pressing issues that are of importance. Besides joining clubs, student found companionship with thei peers who shared their desire t learn. The classroom was an idea setting to learn more about Soc ology, Physchology, Politics, an History. With their combine skills, teachers offered student opportunities for socializin' an learnin'.

nguage Arts was definitely one bject with which all students ere familiar. Since day one of ementary school, a skill that was cessary for any type of success as taught: the art of reading and riting. In high school, how-er, students were taught to ex-nd their English horizons, and me even chose extracurricular tivities in the English field.

The three Language Arts clubs were: Forensics and Debate, the National Forensics League, and the Towne Crier. The two main goals for the Forensics and Debate Team were to work hard and excell in competition. The team learned many life long lessons through competition, including how to build confidence, and speak and write with skill. The National Forensics League, also under the guidance of Mary-Sue Crommelin, was much like Forensics and Debate, however this team involved more prestige. Intelligence and fluent speaking skills were a mandatory requirement to participate in the National Forensics League. The Towne Crier Staff, under the guidence of Mrs. Jolene Scholl, was a journalism class. "I love journalism and writing. It's so much fun and a such a great opportunity to gain experience," stated sophomore Molly Beiderman. Students at First Colonial didn't have to travel very far to experience new different cultures, tastes, and ways of life. Walking down the 200 hall, students could hear French, Latin, German, and Spanish. They learned by watching soap operas, playing board games, teaching each other, listening to music and doing worksheets. AP Foreign Language classes were made to speak thier respective languages at all time. During Foreign Language week the 200 hall was full of posters and dsigns promoting different languages. Each student prepared a flavorful dish from around the world, and all foreign language classes got together and had a big party. The Foreign Language clubs at First Colonial were also a big hit this year. The Spanish Honor Society, with sponsor Alba Clare, helped out the less fortunate by collecting canned goods around Christmas time. The Spanish Club, with sponsor Marie Howell was able to help sponsor a holiday family by participating in a Barnes and Noble Bookwrap for donations. variety of clubs came under the ıtegory of human services, but ıe Interact, Key and FCCLA were ubs which were very active in hool and the community. In ıe FCCLA, members learned ow to cook a variety of foods, eveloped child care skills, and arned many aspects of interior ıd exterior design. In the fall, ıe Key Club held a blood drive in which students participated, conducted a fishing trip located just off of Chick's Beach area for special children and then promoted the "Walk-America" for the March of Dimes which occurred in April. The Interact Club was very active beginning with Clasp bingo held at the Bow Creek Recreation Center for mentally challenged people. Christian Harrison remarked, " At the clasp bingo event, I liked helping the people with learning the game. It was fun." Club members helped them mark their numbers and understand the game rules. They also went to the Union Mission and helped stock cans for the Thanksgiving Dinner. In March, they participated in the "Relay for Life" which helped raise money to support cancer research. Assisting with the Trantwood Carnival, the members helped set up booths and served as workers where needed. Within each club's activities, students acquired personal and social skills which kept them servin' and smilin' throughout the year.

Business Lookin' to the future & Technology

"IN THE BUSINESS WORLD, THE REARVIEW MIRROR IS ALWAYS CLEARER THAN THE WINDSHIELD." - WARREN BUFFETT

Students were faced with an array of options from the Business and Technology department. The offerings were: Computers and Communications Technology, Photography and Printing, Electricity, Small Engines, Introduction to Engineering, Consruction Technology, Computer Information Systems, Accounting, Keyboarding, Marketing, Office Adminisrations, and Keyboarding Applications. All these classes helped to point students in the right direction and gave them a chance to experience their interests first hand. Students found that whatever they were seeking to learn, there was a computer or technology class that would help shape their interest into an applicable skill. The opportunities for students to enjoy themselves were not simply limited to classes, however. The Computer department and the Technology department also offered clubs through which students could enhance their interests afterschool. The two most popular clubs of the year were: the (FBLA) knownas the Future Business Leaders of America and the Distributive Education Club of America (DECA). These organizations proved to be a fun hang out for students wherein the could also provid valuable services to the community such a Angel Tree, Project Ask, and Bear for Kids. These clubs were sur to be an assest in the student' future endeavors.

Naval marchin' through JROTC

With the development of a strong self-discipline, students in the NJROTC would gain an ability to lead and motivate others, develop a well rounded character which would lead to future leaders who could succeed in business, industry, and education. The Naval Junior Reserve Officers' Training Corps (NJROTC) taught students self-discipline, self-confidence, and leadership skills that would help them successfully meet life's challenges. The curriculum, instruction, and activities was designed to develop the student's leadership ability regardless of their career path. Participation was also encouraged in community programs and projects Some of the year's activities included dances, military balls, a tour of a naval installation, and a trip to Navy ships and aircraft. Some cadets gained the opportunity to represent their military training by serving in the color guard or drill team at various school functions. To increase skill, many attended a mini-enlisted boot camp, mini-officer candidate school, and leadership academies, wherein the Navy provided all books, drill equipment and uniforms. NJROTC was a unique and exciting way to develop lasting friendships, leaderhip skills, and character. The dedicated military leaders and cadets demonstrated that they could continue marchin' through any and every assignment handed them.

"IN ART, THE BEST IS GOOD ENOUGH."-JOHANN WOLFGANG VON GOETHE

The creative talents of so many students was evidenced upon inspection of any of the art classes. Art Appreciation, Art Foundations, AP Art History, or Ap Studio Art afforded students a variety of avenues through which to explore and expand their horizons. Without art in the world there would be no advertisements on television, in magazines or newspapers, no new fashions, and no sets designed for movie or theatre productions. Art students were also afforded the opportunity to join the Art Honor Society whose purpose was to foster an awarness of art and art appreciation. As one of the leading clubs within the school, the Art Honor Society conducted outstanding community projects which included the holiday card designs they made for a Virginia Beach Pediatric Ward. They also created a holiday mural for the popular resturant at the oceanfront, the Jewish Mother. Kenny Kuchta, their president said, "Art is one of my favorite pastimes. Being in the AHS, people recognize me for my artistic talent, ar my artistic charisma." Kenny al commented that he loves bei part of a group that gives back the community. With a curre roster of eighteen members, tha a lot of giving back. The Art Hon Society was a prime example how unselfish and caring st dents caould be when it came their community.

As if actin' crazy weren't enough, the students who participated in theatre arts closed the curtain on another terrific season as the 2000 school year came to an finale. Under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Curtis, the Theatre Arts Department completed a multitude of plays and proved to have a wonderfully talented group of students. Not only did the actors work hard to produce these plays, but costume designers, makeup artists, technical directiors, stage crews, and student directors also put in hours of long rehearsals in order to perfect the shows. Brianne Scott commented, "The best thing about being in theatre is that it is a creative outlet. It's really fun, and it's a great stepping stone if you want to pursue a career in acting." Theatre Arts students were involved in a variety of groups ranging from the Patriot Players to the Thespian Troupe 3178. The Thespians held inductions, in which "plebes" were required to spend a great deal of time being involved with theatre related activities. The Patriot Players and the Theatre Ensemble spent the majority of the year producing shows together. Some of the plays this year were "The Diviners," "Shattered Images," The Anteroom," and "The Real Queen of Hearts A'int Even Pretty." The more publicized shows of the year included, "To Kill a Mockingbird, "A Midsummer Night's Dream, and "Big River."

Singing and dancing their way into the hearts of the parents at the PTSA Fall Open House, the choruses performed three forties tunes which delighted parents and fellow students. On October 27, the fall concert's theme was American music. Andy Ramos, sophomore, was a featured piano soloist performing his original composition, "Serenade in D". The nationally heard madrigals were also featured on the Ken Hamblin show during the month of November singing the National Anthem at the beginning of the radio telecast. But choral students didn't rest. In November, nineteen students were selected for Distict II Chorus, and the month of December was packed with eight performances throughout the community as well as the Christmas Concert on December 8. Performance sites were: Wells Theatre, Va. Marine Science Museum, the Norfolk Airport and CINCLANTFLT luncheon. With New York as a pleasant memory from last year, the choruses geared up for competition i Williamsburg held April 28 & 2 where the showchoir, men's e semble, concert choir and madr gals competed against schoo from across the country. Several choral students clowning around before Christmas break show their enthusiasm for the season. Time off from rehearsals and performances helped to further build the spirit of teamwork.

Performing his original composition during the fall concert titled, "Serenade in D", Andy Ramos fascinates the audience with his melodious tune. The concert was moved from the theatre to the chorus room for Andy's selection and the final choral number.

'It Don't Mean a Thing If It Ain't Got That Swing", is performed by the madrigal/showchoir at the PTSA Fall Open House night. This annual event was filled with entertainment provided for visiting parents, family members, and students.

The day before Christmas break, Sean Bailey displays his creativeness with candy canes. James Turnbull joined in on the fun and took the opportunity to be in the photo.

All choirs sing together favorite Christmas songs both sacred and secular for weary travelers. The Norfolk International Airport was the host for this annual performance.

Singing an a cappella selection Mrs. Bone directs the concert choir and madrigals. The concert,held at St. Ignatius Cathedral in New York City, was a combined effort of the orchestra and choir.

Marching movin' & groovin' Band

Students interested in furthering their musical ability or in learning to play an instrument had the opportunity to do so by taking a band class. There were an assortment of band related classes, ranging from Advanced Band to Music Theory, Music Appreciation to Percussion. For some band students, learning did not stop in the classroom. Many of them joined the award winning Marching Band. At Friday night football games, the audience was pleased to hear the music played by the Marching Patriots. Led by Drum Major Andy Park, the band proved to be a highly talented and dedicated group of students. Long hours of practice after school were required to mastering the music, steps, phrasing, and syncronization of the routine. The color guard provided a unique flavor and an exciting element to the music. Their visual display depicting the theme of the music enhanced the overall effect. Capturing a win that named them the 1999 U.S. Scholastic Band Association Champions gave the band motivation to continue on through the year. Not only were band members successful in competition, but also in forming new friendships. This medium taught students to work well together and to develope a sense of teamwork. The movin' and groovin' of the band remains in the audience's minds.

"OR BID THE SOUL OF ORPHEUS SING SUCH NOTES AS WARBLED TO THE STRING." -JOHN MILTON

Stringed instruments have played an important role in the development and continuance of music. Students from orchestra worked hard all year to improve their technique, control, and develop a greater degree of musical knowledge and musicality. These technical skills enabled the players to improve strength and versatility on their individual instruments. In order to participate in out of school activities, orchestra students participated in many fundraisers. They sold candy at the beginning of the year in order to finance a trip to New Orleans, Louisiana. The First Colonial Orchestra was invited to play with Princess Anne and Cox High School Orchestras at the Ovation National Music festival in New Orleans. FC also participated in the District Orchestra Festival at Princess Anne High School. The students also put on fall, winter, and spring concerts, so they were busy all year round. The student players put in many long hours of rehearsal after school and during class to achieve such tremendous goals. Kristin Rimer a Amy Groffman commente "Most of us in Orchestra ha been playing together since six grade, and we are like a big fa ily. It is a class that everyo looks forward to. We have a gre time." The achievements gain through the hard work were e joyed by a vast majority of t members.

Human Interest

doin' what we like

The branch of school related clubs that brought together all walks of life, religion, and ethnicities were human interest clubs. Bound by similar interests, students had the opportunity to get together and discuss experiences and complete exciting projects. Because of their similar characteristics, these clubs found it easy to achieve their objectives. Led by expert surfer and teacher Greg Crowley, the Surfrider Club members enjoyed camaraderie and support in many competitions. Mr. Crowley always posted a surf report at the top of his room reporting the height of the surf, wind direction, water temperature, and tide information. The Bible Club, led by sponsor Mrs. Paula Ballard, gave students the chance to share various religions with their peers. President Ricky Pittman brought many positive messages to the various members of the club. The Gospel Choir emphasized strength and unity through their beautiful voices. Sponsored by Mrs. Alice Hickman, students were exposed to different types of gospel music and were able to sing and communicate through song. The Odyssey of the Mind Team was composed of five students. "It gave us an opportunity to be creative and think about something that didn't seem like work. The team involves long hours and much dedication, but in the end it was worth it," said sophomore Leigh Matchett. The students won the district award and made it to the state division doin' what they like to do.

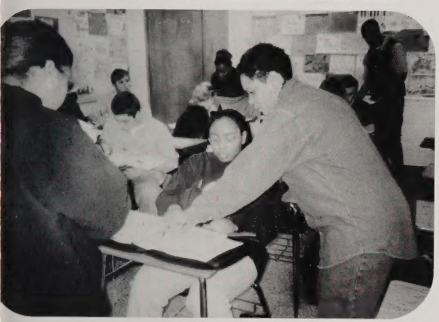
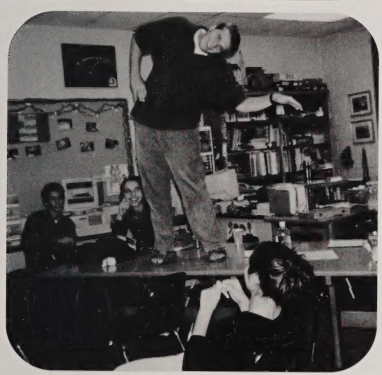
Wrapping holiday gifts for children, Ian Lawrence and Eric Lonning try to earn NHS hours. These events sponsored by the NHS were a great way to help the community.

Diligently, Tuvara Lowe and her mother work on a problem together. The NHS sponsored the Big Chill, a day where parents could come to school with their children.

Painting a cabinet for Sparks class, Michelle Foster demonstrates her artistic abilities. The creative talents of the students were shown through this group project.





Performing his rendition of "I'm a little teapot," David Jaskot impresses his fellow peers. Sparks students were allowed to express themselves in many inventive ways.

As daily participants of the Governor's School for the Arts Brittany Gleason, Kara Large, James D. Johnson, Meaghan Schindler, Alison Farraher, Virginia Rector, Laura Seipal, Elizabeth Blachman, and Hillary Poirier pose for a group photo. These students were selected by audition only for a position at the school.

Members of the gifted program display the toys they are donating at Christmastime. The Toys for Tots program organized by the Marine Corps was one of the gifted students' main community service projects.

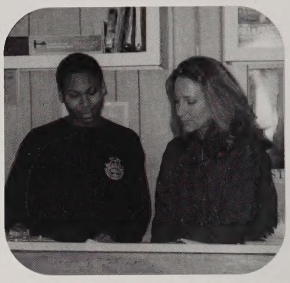
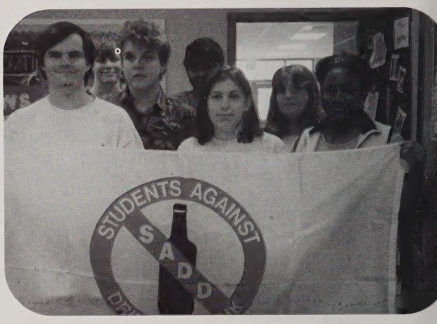
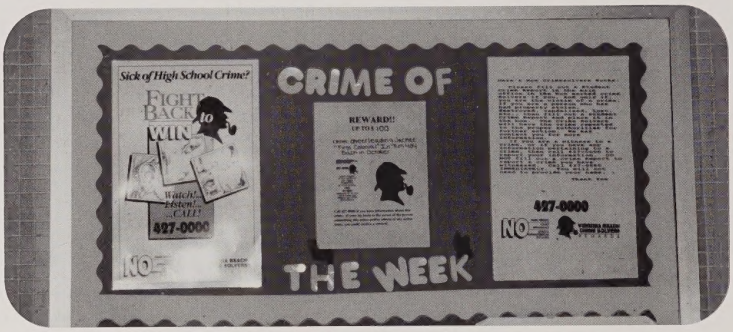
At the YADAPP state convention, Jodi Stanley, David Hanson, and Palmer Roberts ask their sponsor, Mrs. Heidi Wimbush to take their picture. Jodi, David, and Palmer enjoyed the information sessions, group games and activities during their stay at Longwood College.

Working diligently to plan their upcoming schedule, peer mentor John Mars and sponsor Mrs. Kathy Wolf, discuss their ideas with one another. The mentors helped the freshmen navigate their way through school, assisted in homework and answered all questions.



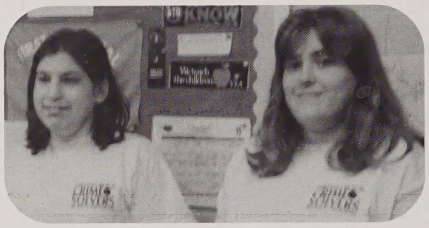
Standing wit pride, SADD/Ju Say No membe proudly hold the flag. These clu members took a l of pride in the o jectives of the club.





Keeping students up to date, Crime Solvers members post important news, such as the "Crime of the Week," on this bulletin board. The board allowed students to anonymously report any crimes.

Displaying their Crime Solvers t-shirts, Debbie Mallison and Rena Smith are the first to wear them all day. Debbie and Rena were active members who contributed their time and efforts to the task at hand.



Hoping to learn a few new methods for better mentoring, Elizabeth Starkes watches intently during a monthly Peer Mentor meeting. These meetings allowed the mentors to discuss the progess made with the freshmen.

What does serving mean to you?

Service lendin' a helpin' hand Organizations

What does the term "service organization" mean? That would be would be a club which sought to help both the community and the school as a whole. These clubs included: SADD/Just Say No/ Crime Solvers; Happy Club; and Peer Mentors. While Peer Mentors focused their energy on serving just the underclassmen in school, the SADD/Just Say No/ Say No/Crime Solvers and Happy Clubs reached outside the walls of the school and served the public. The main purpose of SADD/Just Say No/Crime Solvers was to provide a safe, drug free environment for the students within the school and the community. Some of the community activities in which the members took part included Red Ribbon Week, Prom Promise, and the Great American SmokeOut. This club has done a great job of weaving the external activities into the daily lives of the students. The Happy Club has also taken part in several functions that serve the community outside the school. Tour de Smiles, a fifteen mile bike race through Virginia Beach, were just a few examples of how involved this group of students has been. Peer Mentors was a club consisting of juniors and seniors that took the initiative to call freshmen and answer questions for them in order to help them make an easier transition to high school. Service clubs were always lendin' a helpin' hand.

"LEADERSHIP AND LEARNING ARE INDISPENSABLE TO EACH OTHER"-JOHN F. KENNEDY

Even before the school year began, the SCA officers, class officers, and members of the Executive Council began leadin' the way preparing for the upcoming year. Whether it was attending Leadership Workshop, or holding meetings, SCA members kept themselves busy during the hot summer days. Those months of tiring preparation paid off. The SCA had an extremely successful Homecoming that was truly "An Evening in Paradise." Other successful events included the Thanksgiving Project which raised over $400 dollars and was able to help two families. And who can forget the hot Snowball Dance in January that really melted away the cold winter ice. The Snowball dance raised over $1,000 dollars for the SCA. The senior class's major events were their Senior Tailgate party before Homecoming, Pig Pickin', Senior Cruise, and CowPlop. All of these fundraisers helped to lower price costs for Senior Prom. The juniors held fundrasiers such as Computer Fun and the ever popular Mr. First Colonial pa eant. These two events al helped to lower prom tickets. T sophomore and freshmen class worked on selling Entertainme books and Blowpops. SCA secr tary Monique Cooke said, "SC is a wonderful opportunity to i teract within our school's co munity and meet new friend It's been a great experience."

SCA Officers

Treasurer: Laura Machaj, Secretary: Monique Cooke, President: Missy Eng, Vice-President: Kate Gordon,

Fleming, I. Lawrence, K. Kuchta, R. Ramsted, C. Nesselrod, J. Larned, N. King, P. Roberts, L. Smartschan, G. Golden, R. O'Donnell, J. Quarles

Holding back the tears, John Almaguer is presented with the Mr. First Colonia crown and cape. John dazzled the crowd and judges beating the other competi tors with his hot dance moves.

DONE

Dancing to the music of Dr. Evil, Josh Owens and his "Mini-Me" perform a talent for the Mr. FC pageant. The talent portion of the show provided the guys with a chance demonstrate their creativeness.

Motivational speaker Kevin Wanzer straps a mask to Janie Larned's face in preparation for a banana eating contest. The FC SCA, as well as other student council's, benefited from Mr. Wanzer's ideas.

Members of the SCA Executive Council meet in Mr. Frazier's classroom to discuss the activities for the Homecoming Pep Rally. Brainstorming ideas was vital to the success of the games used to motivate the student body.

Displaying that having school spirit can truly be fun, the senior class officers combine a diligent work ethic with a little playfulness. The seniors had a great time building their Homecoming float and protecting it from other warring classes.

At an SCA Executive Council meeting, the Junior Class officers deliver their class report. All class officers had the chance to let other grades know what was happening during the year.

At the Mr. First Colonial pageant, Sarah Amelon, Amy Hammaker, Jayme Lackore, and Janie Larned introduce the contestants for the show. The Mr. FC pagaent was a fundraiser to help reduce the cost of Junior Prom tickets.

"A JOURNEY OF A THOUSAND MILES MUST BEGIN WITH A SINGLE STEP."-LAO-TZU

What do you like most about being a leader?

"It keeps me involved in school."

Amy Gomez, 9

All Said lastin' contributions And Done

"Trying to sell enough ads to get a free yearbook."

Patrick Bylar Clark, 11

"Driving around to local businesses was fun."

Lauren Reagan, 12

"Knowing that the ad I was selling would help pay for the yearbook."

Michelle Chung, 12

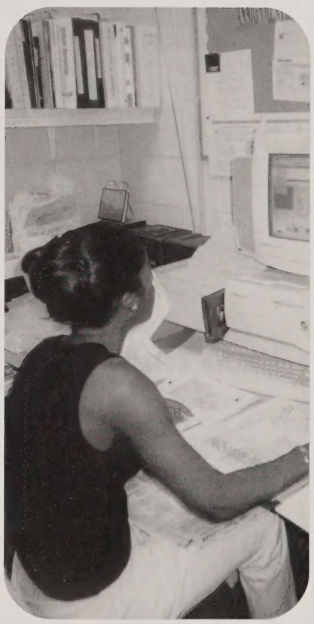
What did you like best about selling ads?

Although the staff actually compiled the yearbook, the production of The Heritage would not have been possible without the aid of area businesses and parents. The Business Managers had the huge job of assembling and designing all the ad and PDA pages. But when all was said and done, their goal was to make a lastin' contribution by producing an accurate history book of their school and community.

Designing the layout pages for the community section of the Heritage, Business Managers Todd Detweiler and Laurie Phillips work diligently to input the information o the computer. Laurie and Todd were responsible for compiling all the PDAs, business ads, and communicating with parents and businesses to process the correct informatio into the yearbook.

Gathered together, Laura Machaj, Lee Smartschan, Missy Eng, and Todd Detweiler review an ad layout. Staff members dedicated part of their free time soliciting ads from local businesses.

Thinking about the area businesses they could possibly target, Lee Smartschan, Adam Appleton, Matt Eng, and Patrick Clark mentally map out a strategy. These staff members utilized some spare time in an effort to raise funds helping to defray the cost of producing the yearbook.



With great patience, co-editor Monique Cooke uses the computer to create the perfect spread. One of the co-editor's jobs was to design the book's pages as well as make corrections on the copy of each.

During the summer Yearbook Conference held at Bridgewater College, Becky Baines carefully finishes skecthing the cover for the 1999-2000 Heritage. Becky and accompanying staff members worked alongside with a Jostens artsist to design the cover, end sheets and folio tabs.

Before you move on to other avenues, please read the advice given by the Skin Horse in the "Velveteen Rabbit" by Margery Williams.

"Real isn't how you are made," said the Skin Horse. "It's a thing that happens to you..."
"Does it hurt?" asked the Rabbit.
"Sometimes," said the Skin Horse, for he was always truthful. "When you are Real, you don't mind being hurt."
"Does it happen all at once, like being wound up," he asked, "or bit by bit?"
"It doesn't happen all at once," said the Skin Horse. "You become. It takes a long time. That's why it doesn't often happen to people who break easily, or have sharp edges, or who have to be carefully kept."

We hope you experience "Real." We love you. Mom and Dad

Colophon

The 1999-2000 edition of the HERITAGE contained XXX pages and was published by Jostens Printing and Publishing, Winston-Salem plant, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. The representative was Mr. Kelly Morgan. Lifetouch/Prestige took all the club, faculty, sports, senior portraits, and underclassmen headshots.

Fonts used in this book were as follows: Nuptial Script for the senior superlatives and underclass story headlines; Palatino was used in all the body copy and captions; Trajan was used for the folio tabs, StampFont was used on the title page; Mistral and Johanna MT were both used in the sports section. The index contained both Palatino and Impact.

Color was used in the opening, student life, and senior sections.

Tool lines, gray screens, rounded corners, and patterened screens were used in all sections. Artwork for the folio tabs helped carry the theme throughout the book.

"ANYBODY CAN MAKE HISTORY. ONLY A GREAT MAN CAN WRITE IT." -OSCAR FINGAL O'FLAHERTIE WILLS WILDE

R.D. Cummings once said that "A good book has no ending." We can say that this is certainly true of the 1999-2000 Heritage. The memories that you have assemled will last for a lifetime, and you deserve all the credit for putting together this anthogy of timeless treasures. It has been a pleasure working with all of you this year. Each one of you brought a unique skill and characteristic that made the staff tick and work well as a group. We could not have asked for a more dedicated and talented staff. We wanted to include personal messages to reflect on memories throughout the year. Here it goes.... MISSY ENG: This year has been extremely difficult for me mainly because I am a total stress freak! People told me that I could not handle being SCA President and editor, and I did not believe them. After many nervous breakdowns and near death experiences, I realize that they were half right. What got me through was the dedication of all the staff members. Putting a yearbook together is NOT a job for two editors. Without the moral support and hard work of all of you, I would have been doomed. The yearbook camraderie was wonderful too. I really feel like we have all become even better friends than we started out being. I will NEVER forget the yearbook gift exchange at Becky's house and the game that I chose not to participate in. I know Lee and Adam had fun though. Becky, Laurie, and Lauren: we will be forever bonded together because of those three days of utter despair at Bridgewater. I wonder how Boom Boom Cannon and Mrs. Zorn are doing?? I will still be able to hear the screaming that came from everyone's mouth in yearbook. Some day's were very tense! All in all, I will always cherish the memories that we made this year. Two last things: Mrs. Bone, you have been the best advisor anyone could have ever asked for. I will miss you. Monique, my co-editor, we have been through SO MUCH! Thank you for being there always. To everyone: I love you all, and I will miss you greatly next year! The best of luck in all your endeavors throughout life. MONIQUE COOKE: Well what can I say? This year has definitely been interesting and stressful. However, helping put the yearbook together has been one of the high points of my life. Although at times I felt overwhelmed, I think that it was all worth my time and effort. Adam: You always cheered my up on my bad days and I thank you for all the kisses. Michelle: You are my beautiful Korean. Laura: You are the best ethnic sister in the world. Thanks for working so hard on all your spreads. Laurie, Lauren and Becky: Thanks for all the hard work dedication, and hours you put into working on the yearbook. Harrison: My favorite photographer. The pictures this year were wonderful and don't ever forget our song. Todd: I have now given you the title of "Ad King." You did such a spectacular job with all your assignments. Lee: "Physics is the bomb-diggity." That phrase will forever be embedded in my brain. And to all the other staff members, I have enjoyed working with you this year. Your continued dedication has made the yearbook what it is. Melissa Ann Eng: You are my best friend. You are my Asian Sensation. You and I both know something is wrong when you leave school and it's dark outside. Thanks for being co-editor with me and staying here till it's bedtime. Those "hair-raising" pictures need to be thrown in the dumpster. I love you! Thanks for everything. Mrs. Bone: You are the best yearbook advisor ever known to man. Thanks for helping us so much and fixing all the problems we encountered. I wish everyone the best of luck in life and in all that you do.

Best Wishes and Love Always,

Missy and Monique

Heritage Editors

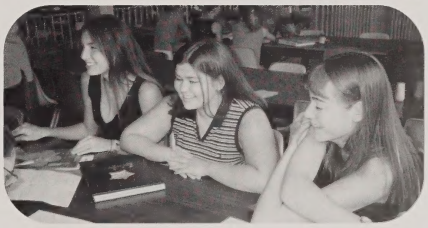
Working as a team, Adam Appleton, Matt Stites, and Lauren Reagan brainstorm ideas for a story on their next spread. Staff members would often times consult each other for ideas, names, and page composition.

Carefully looking over some pictures for thier spread, staff members Adam Appleton and Laura Machaj choose which ones capture the best moment. Staff members would take their chosen pictures to be reviewed by the photography editor.

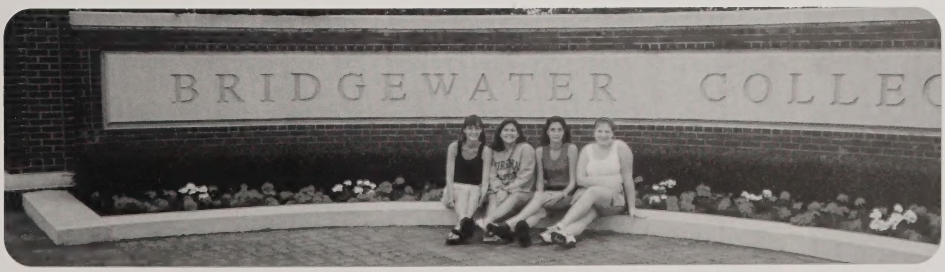
Cutting out pictures from magazines, Laurie Phillips carefully maneuvers around the edges. Laurie designed mock up pages for the theme package required at the Jostens' summer workshop.

Diligently working at their computers, Becky Baines and Harrison Poole race against time to arrive at a major deadline. Many staffers had to stay late hours and come in on weekends in order to finish spreads.



On top of the grand piano, Harrison Poole designs the collage pages in the student section. Harrison, photography editor, had to select the photos, draw each on the layout board, crop them and then input the information into the computer.

Laurie Phillips, Missy Eng, and Lauren Reagan work with a Jostens artist to discuss the cover of the 1999-2000 Heritage. These girls and another staff member Becky Baines attended a summer workshop to discuss many yearbook fundamentals.



At the end of June, Lauren Reagan, Missy Eng Laurie Phillips and Becky Baines sit in front of the Bridgewater College entrance marker. These staff members attended the Jostens' four day summer workshop to lay the foundation for the 2000 yearbook.

Brown - Yeah it's been real being in the same Math class & riding the same bus. Have a good summer Always Johnny

Bryan-
I don't know you really well, but it's been cool sitting next to you in French. See you in French 4 next year. I wonder if we will ever have to actually do something in French Honor Society.

-Claire (Monique)

Bryan -
It was a great year,
I was happy we found some one to replace Dave in the 400m, and you did a great job.
Have a great summer
and I'll see you in the pool.
Sam Shreeve

Bryan,
Hey baby! It was a great year getting to know you (the little time that I knew you)
Well have a great summer and dont do anything I would do'
Always,
Kit 437-1065 Jayne
Barry

this French stuff is hard.
How do you manage getting so many A's?
i geuss i'll see you in French II.

Bryan

I wouldn't miss you in all your glory
Oh
you are a great friend and never change Classes
next year will be hard having you around to know each other
next
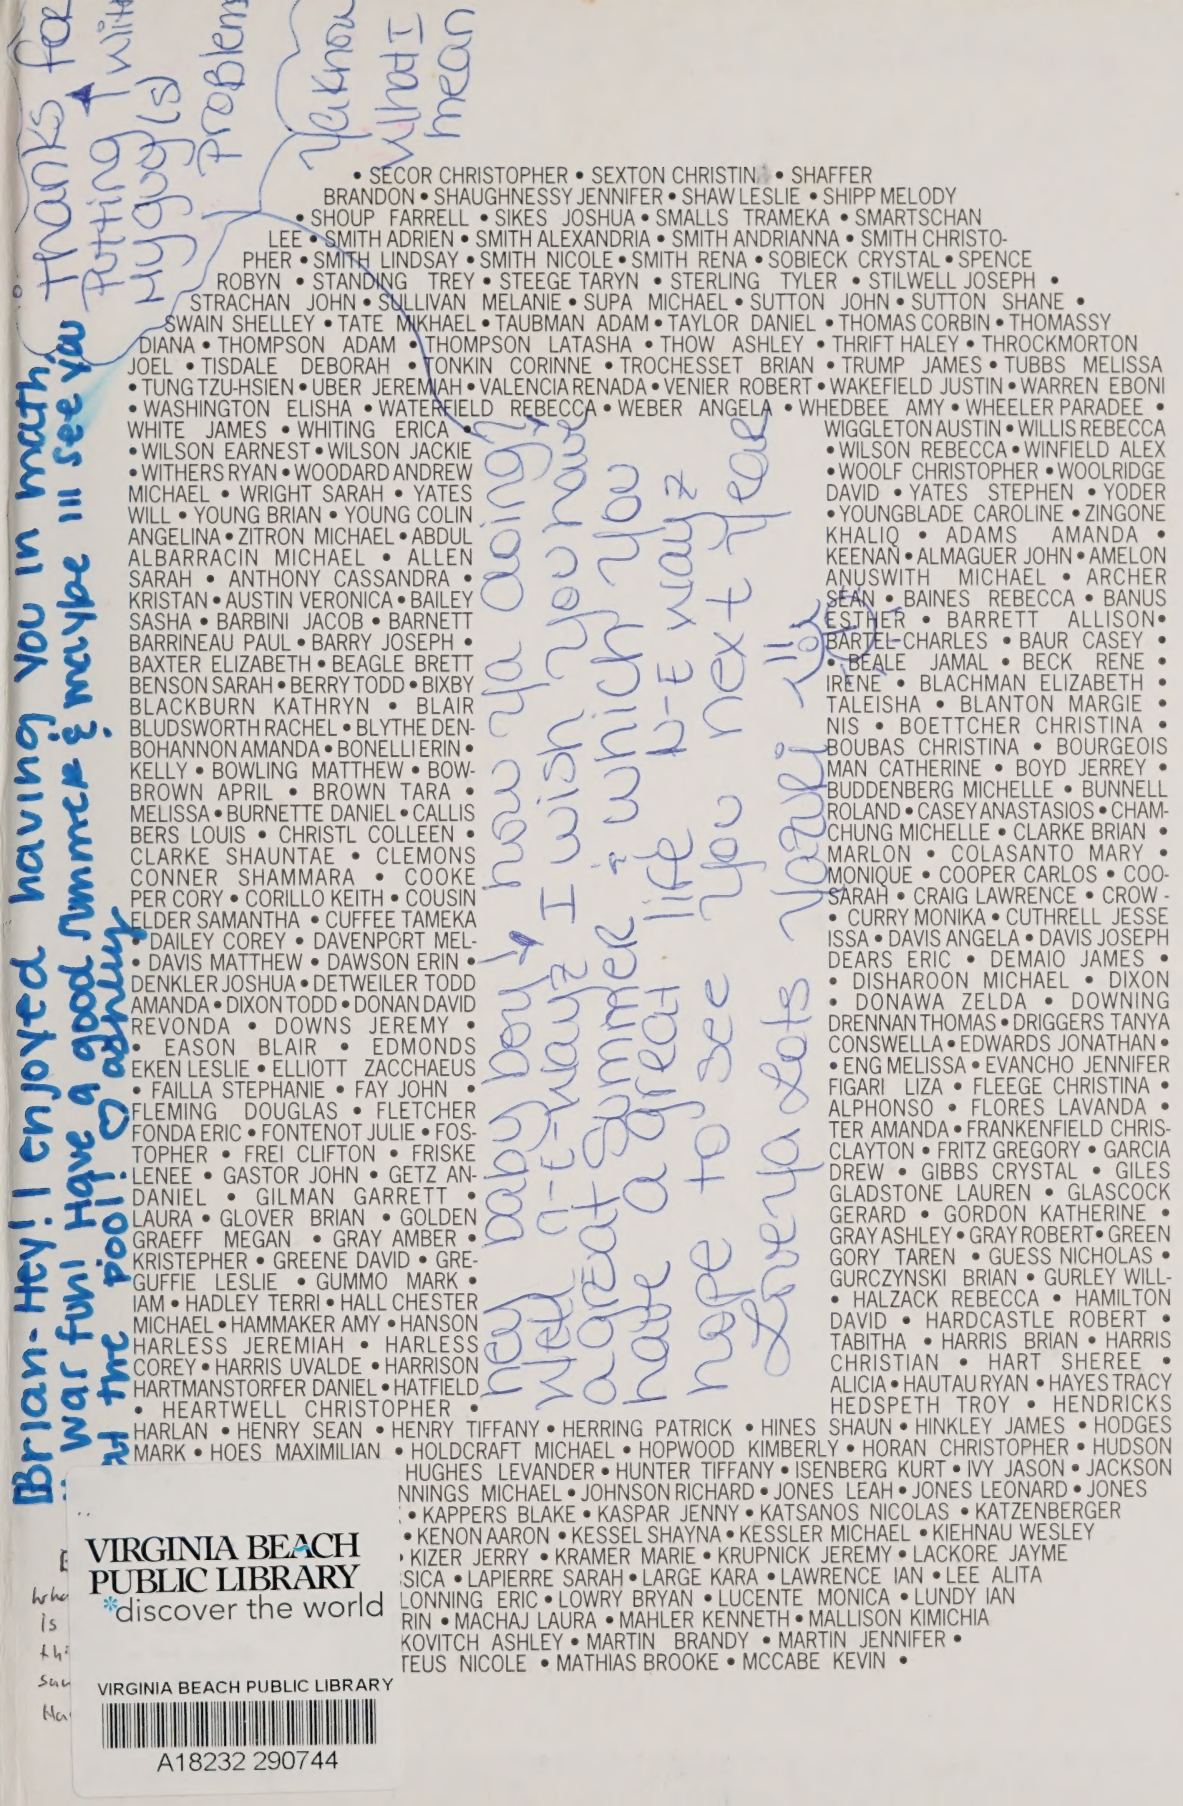
Call me over the Summer & hopefully
TO know each other next



Brian- Hey! I enjoyed having you in math class. Thanks for putting up with my goofy(s) problems. Have a good summer & maybe I'll see you at the pool! Ashley
